THE CAMPAIGN.

THE REPUBLICAN PROCESSION YESTERDAY.

A Terrible Rainy Day but a Glorious Outpouring of the Masses.

FULLY FIFTEEN THOUSAND VOTERS IN LINE.

INVINCIBLE ENTHUSIASM.

Description of the Various Displays.

THE CONVENTION POSTPONED.

MEETING TO-NIGHT.

If the clerk of the weather had studied during the past six months for the plan of a disagreeable, wretched, spirit-provoking, damp, dull, miserable, lifeless day, he could not have sent a worse specimen to the world than was that set apart (yesterday) for the grand Mass Convention and Procession of the Republicans of Western Pennsylvania. From the first burst of a questionable daylight to the setting of a supposable sun, a heavy, steady, incessant, wicked, provoking, never-ending rain fell from the frowning heavens to dampen the spirits of the thousands of good Republicans who had impatiently looked forward for the day with the ambitious desire of contributing to the success of the occasion which was to mark it, and make memorable the Grant campaign. But the enthusiasm of the people is aroused, and it would take an hundred of just such miserable days, crowded into one, to totally suppress the gushing patriotism of those who stand resolute and determined for victory under the banner of Grant and Colfax. In spite of the peltering rain, in disregard of the dark, sullen clouds, which never permitted a gleam of sunshine to burst through their frown, there marshaled and marched through the streets of the sister cities such a political cavalcade as never before was witnessed in any place in this broad Commonwealth. It required a sturdiness of character, a political pluck, bravery, patience and endurance in those who swelled the throng yesterday to render the occasion such a brilliant and heart-inspiring one as it was, and the rain, constant and continual as it fell, did not prevent the witnessing of the grandest partizan parade in point of numbers which ever took place in this State. However, had no rain fallen, or had it even let up at intervals, the procession would have been just twice as large and the turnout of the masses on the highways ten fold as numerous. The display made under such unauspicious circumstances, rainy weather and muddy streets, fully developed the intensity of the enthusiasm of the loyal Republicans of this section, and coupled with the grand demonstration of the previous evening, conclusively shows that it is safe to wager a big apple on Allegheny county giving at least ten, if not twelve or fifteen thousand majority for Grant and Colfax in November.

From seven o'clock to ten the clans gathered in line of procession according to the published programme, but owing to the inclemency of the weather the columns were slow to move. Fully six thousand persons, in wagons, on horseback and on foot, came out for the procession, but fearing to risk their lives to an exposure to the elements turned homewards, leaving, however, behind enough to sustain the dignity of the occasion, even at the peril of health.

THE ADVANCE COLUMN.

The advance column of this monster procession formed on Water street, with the right resting on Smithfield, in the following order:

A detachment of the City Police, commauded by Capt. M. W. Lewis, aided by eight Lieutenants.

Gen. H. F. Collier, Commander-in-Chief, his Chief of Staff, Col. J. H. Stewart, and Adjutant General, Capt. W. B. Cook.

James McErier,	Walter C. Childs,
Chas. H. Bradley,	Alex. G. Bradley,
Sergt. T. L. Knapp,	W. S. Purviance,
D. B. Morrison,	H. C. Yeager.

The National Guard, numbering seventy-five mounted men, commanded by Captain Schoonmaker, having been detailed as an escort to the Commander-in-Chief, came next in the line.

Then came twenty-five carriages, most of them drawn by four horses each, and containing prominent citizens, distinguished gentlemen from a distance, disabled soldiers of the late war, and soldiers of the Mexican war and war of 1812.

The Second Ward Glee Club were next in order, and formed the rear of the advance column. They rode in a wagon drawn by six spirited horses, gaily caparisoned, and driven in hand.

FIRST GRAND DIVISION.

The First Grand Division, under command of Gen. J. Bowman Sweitzer, formed on Wood street, with the right resting on Water street, in the following order:

Gen. J. Bowman Sweitzer, Division Commander, accompanied by his Chief of Staff, Adjutant General, and a full staff of aids.

The Great Western Band, numbering 20 members, came next.

The Grant Hussars, under command of Gen. Wm. Blakely, had the right of the division. There were seven companies, the first of which was armed with cavalry sabres, and the others carried the torch used for night parades. The companies numbered 100 men each, and formed one of the principal features in the grand cavalcade.

Succeeding the Huzzars marched the Second Ward Grant Club, commanded by Lieut Al. Neeper.

The members all wore caps and capes and carried torches trimmed with evergreen wreaths. They marched in splendid style, and the appearance made was exceedingly fine. They carried three magnificent flags, on the staff of one of which was hung splendid pictures of Grant and Colfax, surrounded by beautiful evergreen wreaths, and upon another a blue silk streamer upon which was inscribed in letters of gold, "Presented by the Ladies of the Second Ward, Sept. 23d, 1868."

The Second ward Juniors, numbering thirty boys, under command of Capt. Ed. Puelps, succeeded the Second ward Club. The little fellows faced the storm manfully and marched over the entire route of procession.

The First ward Grant Club, about one hundred and fifty strong, under command of Captain Perkins, followed next. They were in full campaign uniform, and each man carried a torch tastefully decorated with evergreens and flowers. At the head of the Club was a brass band and three beautiful flags.

Next came the Tanners Club, from the Ninth and Tenth wards, with a hundred men in ranks, commanded by Captain Porter. This Club was preceded by a martial band and carried several flags and banners.

The Allegheny county Central Tanners Club, Companies A and F, commanded by Captain Patterson, and preceded by a brass band were next in the line. Each company numbered one hundred men.

Following these came the Tanners Club of the Fourth ward, Pittsburgh, commanded by Captain William F. McClure. The Club mustered over one hundred strong, and marched finely. They were preceeded by the Keystone Glee Club, in a wagon.

Next in order come four pieces of artilliery, two brass and two steel guns, all fully manned.

After these came the Rescue Hook and Ladder Company, forty strong, drawing their truck, followed by the Lawrence Hose Company, of Lawrenceville, and the Mechanics Hose Company, of Birmingham. The two companies had their carriages with them.

Following came four wagons containing men dressed in motley. One of the vehicles was drawn by a wretched sway-backed horse, labelled the "Grecian Bend."

Next came two wagons belonging to Anderson, Cook & Co., filled with men. These were followed by four wagons belonging to the Pittsburgh Steel Works.

Next came the Butchers, all wearing white shirts and black pants, with red sashes. They numbered ninety-eight, and were all splendidly mounted.

Next after these was the miniature steamer "Grant," bound for Vicksburg. The beautiful model was on a wagon, and had steam up. She was built for the First ward under the superintendence of Tom. Reese; hull by William McGinnis; engines by Bob Irwin. Her crew were composed as follows: Captain, Tom Reese; Pilots, Thomas Burns and Adam Kutze; engineers, McGinnis Brothers.

After this came a wagon from the Great Western Planing Mill.

The Grant Club of the Third and Fifth wards followed in full strength, and handsomely uniformed.

Following were the draymen all mounted. They numbered one hundred and eight; all wore blue sashes. They made a very fine appearance.

Next, hung on timber wheels, were three large bells from Fulton's foundry, ringing vigorously.

SECOND DIVISION.

The Second Division, consisting of delegations from several wards in the city, McKeesport, Braddocks Fields and other points along the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad, and the Monongahela river, formed on Water, Grant and First streets, with the right resting on Cherry alley and Water street in the following order:

Col. E. J. Allen, Commanding; Major E. A. Montooth, Chief of Staff; Major Samuel Kilgore, A. A. G.

AIDS.

Capt. Robt. Robison,	H. J. Shallenberger,
John Ralston,	N. P. Reed,
Maj. Geo. Laughlin,	Capt. B. F. Jennings,
Capt. J. H. Elliott,	Max Moorhead,
S. B. Vandenberg,	Chas. Kelley,
Louis Aurin,	Joseph Oakey,
Thos. L. Craig,	Capt. Foster Alward,
Wm. K. Woodwell,	James Wawhinney,
W. E. Harrison,	Joseph Hartman,
B. B. Courtin,	Wm. Funseath,
Capt. Arthur Bell,	D. L. Fleming,
Capt. John Dennison,	Joseph Butler,
James Corry,	Jared M. Brush,
John Kerr,	—— Miller,
Will B. Robinson,	Oliver J. Parker,
Sharpley Packer,	Dr. Sam Reed,
George Smith,	Capt. J. B. Zeigler,
C. C. Fawcett,	Lieut. J. L. Miller,
James McKibben,	Capt. E. S. Wright,
James Palmer,	John R. Wilson,
Wm. E. Frazier, Jr.,	Robt. Coward,
Geo. H. Anderson,	David Hutchinson,
Dill A. Smith,	Robt. Campbell,
Will Chalfant,
Jacob Walters.

A brass band with fourteen instruments headed the division.

The Tanners' Club from Elizabeth had the right of this division. The club numbered seventy-five men, under command of Capt. Joel Pancost, and was preceded by a fine martial band. A beautiful regulation banner bearing the name of the club, completed the display of this delegation.

The delegation from the Sixth ward, commanded by Maj. F. Allward, was composed of the Sixth ward Grant Club in two companies, "A and "B," commanded respectively by Capts. E. S. Wright and S. A. Chambers, and ten wagons filled with veterans of the ward.

The Grant Clubs of the Seventh and Eighth wards came next in order, carrying the same banners and transparencies borne at the torchlight procession, and heretofore mentioned. The club numbered one hundred and fifty men rank and file.

Next came the Junior Club from those wards, numbering fifty, commanded by Martin M. Pope. The distinguishing feature of the Juniors was the excellent glee club which preceded them, and miniature hose carriage drawn by the club.

Next came a delegation from the Fourteenth ward, of a company of mounted men, under command of Capt. Van Voorhees, and a company of footmen, seventy-five in number, under command of C. L. Magee. In addition to the above there were two wagons from Kier's pottery, in one of which were seated two ladies and a workman busily engaged in manufacturing pottery ware. The other was tastefully decorated with flags and banners.

Next in line was the delegation from Braddock's Field, numbering one hundred and twenty-five men, commanded by Capt. M. G. Corey. This delegation was composed of the Braddock's Field Grant Club, bearing a beautiful regulation flag and a transparency with the following inscription: "Where Washington fought Copperskins in 1755 we fight Copperheads in 1868." "Washington's great battle field produces loyal men."

Next came a company of juveniles from the Fourth ward, fifty in number, drawing a small field piece. Following this came a company of "colored troops," with banners and flags.

The rear of the division was composed of wagons from the rural wards, prominent among which we noticed a four horse wagon from Coward's Steam Brick Works, in the Sixth ward, and a wagon drawn by six horses from the Pennsylvania Iron Works, Sixth ward, in which were several banners and transparencies bearing appropriate inscriptions and devices. Owing to the unfavorable weather this division did not form at the time designated, and a great many wagons and carriages fell in line after the procession had started, consequently we were unable to give a full description of all that were in line when the procession moved down Fifth street.

THIRD GRAND DIVISION.

The Third Grand Division, consisting of delegations from the Ninth, Tenth, Twelfth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Wards of Pittsburgh, Major Gus. Schleiter, commanding, J. C. Paul A. A. G. and the following aids: Capt. McClintock, Geo. Dauler, John Arras, Capt. Albright, Maj. Gallisath, G. F. McCandless, Capt. Young, A. B. Boale and S. Cox.

Seventeenth Ward Tanner Club, under command of Capt. John Hoerr, commanding, one hundred men with red capes.

Seventeenth Ward Grant Club, under command of Capt. August Dorchafer. With this club was the martial band formerly belonging to the 16th regulars. The men wore blue caps, and had a banner with the following device: "Hurrah for Grant and the Boys in Blue, The Devil take Seymour and his Crew!"

The Union Hose Company, of Lawrenceville, a juvenile organization, followed with a miniature hose carriage.

The Great Western Tournament Club, composed of colored men from the old Ninth ward, numbering seventy-five men, followed, under command of Capt. J. W. Adkins, carrying spears.

Next followed a delegation from the Union Mills, Ninth ward, under command of Capt. Cloman, with a ten-horse team and twenty men with the great wagon used for hauling the twenty inch guns, being eighteen feet high and more than thirty feet long, weighing with its load upwards of ten tons.

The Twelfth Ward Glee Club followed.

Then came the Union Iron Works delegation, numbering nineteen wagons and four hundred and seventy-three men, under command of Captain Thos. Brady. The device on the tranparency was as follows: "He never sold the right to serve the hour, Nor paltered with eternal truth for power." Another device: "We vote as heavilly as we strike." Another: "Whateyer record leaps to light, he never can be shamed." Another: "Iron arms, not copperheads." Another: "Republicanism—our country, first and last. Democracy—Ourselves first and our country last."

The Fort Pitt Foundry delegation followed. Capt. Knappcammanding. Five wagons and 200 men.

Twelfth ward delegation followed, 110 wagons, 900 men, under Capt. D. S. Anderson. In this delegation there was a wagon load of girls, charmingly attired and looking beautifully.

A delegation from the Franklin Foundry, First ward, followed. In one of the wagons was Brother Jonathan as a Carpet Bagger, southward bound.

Next followed a delegation from the O'Hara Flint Glass Works.

Hussey, Wells & Co.'s Steel Works turned out eight two-horse wagon loads of men, carrying eight banners and a beautiful flag, with mottoes and devices as follows: "A new Brush sweeps clean; we will have no black more." "Blair's Bitters: Greenbacks are good, but Greybacks are better." "Grant's last campaign against the Rebels." "He loves our land less who loves the Sea more." "Blair's Remedy—Anarchy Plaster." "No Seymour; No Blair; No Vember." "Wade Hampton shall not dictate to loyal men." "S. stands for Seymour, also for Stars; B. stands for Blair, also for Bars." "Grant's Cigar our Calumet." "Grant moved immediately upon our Works." "Steel for Grant's Plows, none for Blair's Swords." "The Lost Caws—the Crows of the Post." "Grant, Union in Peace; Blair, Union in Pieces." "Grant and Rights; Seymour and Riots." "Negley, the Grant Tanner; Burtt, the Rattan-er." "Amnesty for Penitent Rebels, a General Grant," "Bloated Bondholders." A representation of the face of the "Mayor's Clock," the hands pointing to five minutes past nine, with the legend "Ladies Beware."

Then followed workmen of the Allegheny Valley Railroad shops in an omnibus. This delegation had on canvass a pictoral locomotive called "Union." The words were inscribed on it. "We will run the engine from the Atlantic to the Pacific; Grant and Colfax engineers."

Next in order came workmen from McClintock's Sawmill Twelfth ward, followed by a glee club from the second ward.

Next came a delegation from the Atlas Works, consisting of ten wagons and three hundred men. They carried the moulders motto, "We cast our votes for men of metal, and sound to the core." The delegation carried a transparency representing on one side a bursted boiler, and Jeff Davis lying amidst the wreck. On the other side, a sound boiler, with Grant as engineer, The boiler representing "Peace."

A delegation from the Helca Foundry, Twelfth ward, two wagons. In one wagon with the device representing a steam hammer, with the motto, "We will ram them down."

Next followed the delegation from C. H. Armstrong's coal and coke works, ten wagons and three hundred men.

Next the Black Diamond Steel Works of Park Brother and Co.'s delegation, seven wagons. In one wagon was a device representing a steam hammer consisting of copperheads. They had a steel beli in one wagon weighing 700 pounds. In another wagon was carried the steel boiler recently tried in Carroll & Snyder's yard, which stood a test of 780 pounds pressure. In other wagons were carried plates of steel weighing 800 pounds each.

Next in order came a delegation from the Union Coal Works. Six teams drawn by mules. The Lawrenceville Glee Club closed this division.

FOURTH DIVISION.

The Fourth Division, cammanded by Charles Jeremy, formed on Carson street, South Pittsburgh, with the right resting on the Monongahela bridge, and marched into line when the Third Division had passed the bridge. The division marched in the following order:

Charles Jeremy, Commander, accompanied by his Chief of Staff, General A. L. Pearson, and A. A. G., Geo. W. Gillespie.

AIDS.

Samuel W. Reynolds,	Henry Jones,
Jacob Schwambly,	James Lindsay,
John W. McGimpsey,	Lewis Brown,
Samuel A. Barr,	Wm. Boyle,
Dr. D. Donaldson,	David Cunningham,
Alex. McClure,	Melcher Verner,
David Cowan,	Wm. Fife, Jr.,
A. Gilfillan,	H. C. Anderson,
John Espy,	Martin Schaffer,
H. Miesperfelt,	John C. Balzell.
W. G. Noble,

The Washington Silver Cornet band, of Birmingham, was at the head of the division.

Then came the delegation from East Birmingham, consisting of the marching men of the Grant Club, one hundred and twenty-five in number, which was followed by a number of wagons from the various mills in the borough. The Walton Hose Company, numbering over one hundred men, drawing the hose carriage, which was tastefully decorated, came next.

The Mechanics Hose Company of Birmingham, headed by the Mechanics Band, followed by the Birmingham Grant Club wagons from the iron mills and glass houses, carrying banners and transparencies bearing all manner of inscriptions and devices.

The delegations from Ormsby, Upper St. Clair, Snowden, Lower St. Clair, Baldwin, Mifflin and Jefferson townships followed next, in wagons, on horseback and on foot, bearing numerous flags, banners and transparencies. In this division we noticed the East Birmingham delegation of bricklayers, in wagons decorated with banners bearing appropriate mottoes, among which were: "No Repudiation," "Grant and Victory" and "East Birmingham will do her duty." Schultz's Bridge Works were represented by a strong delegation. The East Birmingham Club, headed by the Franklin Band, attracted deserved attention. In front of this Club was borne a large transparency on which was conspicuously inscribed: "Unworthy is the nation that does not sacrifice all to sustain its honor." Following in its designated place was the "Grant Brigade," consisting of fifty enthusiastic boys, wearing sashes, and bearing American flags. The Pittsburgh Iron Works was handsomely represented, the inscription on their banner being "The Pittsburgh Iron Works, good for Grant and Colfax." We cannot enumerate all the tastefully chosen mottoes adorning the various transparencies that were carried by the different delegations comprising this division. Mr. Jeremy, accompanied by his faithful aids, exhibited great promptness in organizing his division for the line of march which was taken up at about one quarter of eleven o'clock, moving across the Monongahela bridge and joining the Fifth Division in front of the Monongahela House. A prominent feature in this Division was the display made by Messrs. Jones & Laughlin, of the American Iron works. Chief among the attractions here, was a wagon containing a nail machine, in full operation. Each nail made bore the names of Grant and Colfax.

FIFTH DIVISION.

The Fifth Division, in accordance with the general order formed on Carson street, Monongahela Borough, with the right resting on the south end of the Monongahela bridge, and after the Fourth Division had moved over the bridge formed in the general line in the following order:

Col. J. W. Ballentine, commander, accompanied by his chief of staff, Dr. J. W. Smith, A. A. G., and the following aids:

Jno. S. Hunter,	S. H. French,
F. C. Dorrington,	Robert Hodgson,
Capt. J. L. Graham,	Adam Weaver,
Walter Ferguson,	John V. Auth,
Louis Aurin,	E. Krehan,
David Jones,	Wm. H. Barker,
Nathan Brokaw,	John Riddell,
Wm. Hall,	Glenn Bingham,
Capt. D. B. Ferguson,	Wm. B. Len,
A. McCurdy,	Wm. H. Guy,
Wm. H. Shrodes,	Wilson Hood,
Dr. G. M. Shilleto,	John Hamilton,
James Davis,	Dr. S. P. Graham,
Samuel Dickson,	Frank Couch,
Wm. McDonald,	Joseph Smiley,
Col. F. C. Negley,	John W. Nesbit,
Wm. H. McCune,	Thomas Hunter,
Jonathan G. West,	Joseph Duff,
W. C. Taylor,

The Division was preceded by the Silver Cornet Band.

The Grant Club of South Pittsburgh had the post of honor in the procession and made a fine appearance.

Several other Clubs on foot followed, but we were unable to ascertain where they were from or the number of men in procession. The division was chiefly composed of wagons.

The Sheffield Steel Works delegation, consisting of three wagons, with a large picture representing the manufacture of steel, and on the reverse the killing of a genuine "copperhead," attracted considerable attention. On another was the following: "We have Grant-ed Vermont and Maine, and will C. More in Pennsylvania in November."

Lorenz & Wightman's Glass Works delegation, consisting of four wagons, mounted on one of which were various specimens of glass manufacture, and a transparency with the motto: "We Saved the Union, and can Pay its Debts," and "Grant was never yet Defeated," made a creditable display.

The display of the Pittsburgh Iron Works, J. Painter & Sons, was very fine. Mounted on a wagon was a hoop mill in operation, with a large banner, on which was inscribed: "Pittsburgh Iron Works, Rolls Iron to perfection; Rolls Seymour and Blair out; Rolls Grant and Colfax in," with the last mentioned operations being performed, on canvas.

The Sligo Iron Works, Lyon, Shorb & Co., with large steam hammer, mounted on a wagon, attracted great attention.

The Clinton Nail Works, Graff, Bennett & Co., sent out a delegation of six wagons, with nail machine in operation.

The South Pittsburgh delegation made an exceedingly fine display. Oliver Adams, the "colored blacksmith," had mounted on a large wagon a bellows and anvil, with black-smiths at work. The Boys' Grant and Colfax Club, numbering fifty, with red sashes and carrying spears, was a pleasant feature of the display of this delegation.

The main feature of the display of the Temperanceville delegation was the large wagon containing thirty-six girls dressed in white with pink sashes, and wearing liberty caps, on which were inscribed the names of the several States.

The Monongahela Iron Works delegation consisted of eight wagons, with a pair of crocodile squeezers and squeezermen working the iron, with banners bearing the following mottoes: "Monongahela Iron Works, Lewis, Oliver & Phillips, good for two hundred and seventy six majority." "We have Bolted Democracy." "Our Maine shaft didn't break." "Democratic policy: Free Trade and Repudiation." "New Firm of Grant & Colfax will run the Union Mill double turn for the next four years." "Low wages and work half time under Democratic administration." "Good wages and work full time under Republican administration." "Grant U. S. Peace."

Robinson township, notwithstanding the weather, had the very large number of forty wagons, with banners bearing appropriate inscriptions. On one of the wagons was a pine tree, in the branches of which were nestled a large coon, who didn't seem to mind the rain at all.

The Union township delegation consisted of ten wagons. On one was mounted a wind mill and men threshing with flails.

The Baldwin township delegation had a barge mounted on a wagon, with appropriate mottoes.

SIXTH DIVISION.

The Sixth Division, commanded by Maj. William B. Hezlep, formed on Ohio street, Allegheny, with the right resting on Federal street, and when the Third Division had moved from Penn street, took up the line of march and joined in the line of procession at Smithfield and Water streets in the following order:

Major W. B Hezlep, commander, accompanied by his Assistant Adjutant General, Abe Patterson, and the following aids:

Charles Barnes,	James Coffin,
Robert J. Snodgrass,	J. C. Sample,
W. G. Clark,	Dr. W. S. Husselton,
W. S. Harrah,	B. C. Christy,
H. L. Young,	A. H. Erwin,
J. C. Graham,	Alex. Carson,
Wm. M. Grimly,	Wm. Ceager,
Henry Warner,	Samuel Dean,
H. H. McClelland,	W. J. McGratty.
James McErier.

A fine brass band headed the division.

A company of one hundred men armed with muskets, and bearing a banner with the following inscription: "Up boys and at them."

A detachment of fifty men in wagons followed, calling themselves "Sherman's Bummers," dressed in varied costumes and wearing masks.

The First ward, Allegheny, delegation came next, and made a creditable display under the circumstances.

The Second ward delegation was next in line. They were headed by a two horse wagon, in which a banner was displayed, bearing the inscription: "I'll take care of you and your friends, Seymour.—Grant" and "All Hail Green Mountain Boys."

The Friendship Fire Company followed next in line, and turned out fifty members. They were dressed in their new equipments and looked exceedingly well.

A delegation from the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway shops followed next in line. This delegation had six wagons, all trimmed tastefully with evergreens.

A delegation consisting of four wagons loaded with colored men came next. They carried banners inscribed with suitable devices.

The delegation from the Fifth ward, Allegheny, came next in line. The Grant and Colfax Club of the ward, numbering one hundred men led the delegation. The Goodwill Fire Company, numbering forty-eight men, with their hose carriage tastefully trimmed, followed, succeeding which were five wagons, trimmed with evergreens, and filled with voters from the ward.

The McClure township delegation, in wagons, were next in line. The foremost wagon bore a banner, on which the following was inscribed: "The Post never showed its roosters when a Union victory was announced."

Following this was a minature brick-kiln, in operation, and drawn by six horses. This was succeeded by a cage on a wagon containing four deer. On the sides of the wagon was the inscription, "As the deer fleeth before the hunter, so do the rebels flee before Grant."

Next in order came a delegation of the Superior Iron Works, in six wagons, each drawn by four horses. On one of the wagons was a miniature rail heating furnace, fired up to white heat.

Following this was a delegation of the Ku-Klux-Klan, dressed in indescribable costumes, and wearing the most terrible looking masks.

Then followed the delegations from Ohio and Sewickley townships, on foot and in wagons.

SEVENTH DIVISION.

The Seventh Division, commanded by Capt. Alfred W. Kredel, formed on Ohio street, with the right resting on Federal, and following in the rear of the Sixth Division, joined in the procession in the following order:

Capt. A. Krebel, commanding, accompanied by his Agsistant Adjutant General, Charles A. Miller, and the following aids:

Capt. Jos. R Oxley,	John Stevenson,
Capt. J. E. Schwartz,	Wm. Ruppert,
Major Orin M. Head,	H. Oehmle,
Col. F. C. Tyler,	A. W. Straub,
Wm. J. Hamilton,	Lieut. John Hoedar,
Robert Crumpton,	Capt. Chas. F. Hadley,
Wm. Wettach,	E. Byers,
E. Jones,	R. A. Cameron,
Paul Beehm,	Col. A. M. Hellebower,
A. C. Patterson,	W. A. Lewis,
James Brown,	Wm. C. Murray.

The Washington Cornet Band was at the right of the division.

A delegation from the Third ward, headed by several carriages filled with ladies. The Third Ward Grant Hussars, mounted, came next, and were followed by the Third Ward Wide Awakes, under command of Capt. Casper Gang. The Grant Fire Company followed, and succeeding them was the Ellsworth Hose Company, numbering fifty men. Then followed a large wagon, drawn by four horses, containing the "Third Ward Beer Drinkers."

A delegation of the Union Coopers of the Third ward, followed in twelve wagons. The wagons were well filled with men, who bore banners of numerous devices, and among the inscriptions were noticed the following: "How are you Johnny Reb? The Union boys can't be gulled." A wagon containing a delegation of the Third ward school boys followed. They bore a banner with the motto, "We will learn to do right." Following this was the Ladder Truck of the Columbia, crowded with men, and drawn by four horses. A wagon containing cork contrabands came next, followed by the Junior Columbia Hook and Ladder Company, drawing a small truck filled with small ladders.

Then followed a delegation from Reynold's Malleable Iron Works, in two wagons, which was succeeded by the Fourth Ward Cooper Club, in wagons. On one of the wagons was a miniature shop, and workmen were busily engaged in making barrels. On one of the wagons was a banner, with the inscription: "Grant is the Spiggot that will stop the Rebels' boast." One two horse and a six horse wagon, containing men and boys, followed.

Next in line came a mounted delegation of ice men, wearing straw hats, with "ice" painted prominently on the rim.

Then followed the delegation from the Eighth Ward, headed by a martial band in a wagon. This delegation was all in wagons, and made a strong show. In the first wagon was a transparency containing the inscriptions: "Unconditional Surrender Grant." "Hurrah for Grant that won the day."

Next in line came a wagon, with a minature coke oven, from the works of G. & L. Moul. The oven was in operation, and to strangers was quite a novelty.

Following the Eighth ward, Allegheny, delegation, was the delegation from Millvale borough, who were all in wagons trimmed with evergreens. Their banner asserted that "Loyalty should preserve what lovalty has won."

The Reserve township delegation came next, and was headed by a mounted delegation. They bore a banner with the inscriptions, "Reserve township, good for ninety majority." "Little but strong."

The West Deer township Grant and Colfax Club followed and presented a strong appearance. They carried a banner announcing "The Boys in Blue are here;" "Let Loyalty preserve what Bravery has Won."

The Etna and Shaler township delegations came next, headed by workmen from Spang, Chalfant & Co.'s mills, in wagons. Among other banners carried by the iron workers was one illustrating the difference between a protective tariff and free trade. On one side was represented a mill in full tide of prosperity, under which was inscribed, "Protect Home Industry." On the reverse was a mill in ruins, and under it was the inscription, "Under Seymour and Blair's administration." A delegation from Teshudy's brewery brought up the rear of the delegation.

The Ross township delegation, in wagons, followed, bearing a banner upon which was inscribed: "No Repudiation." "We pay our share of the price of the nation." About seventy-five men on horseback brought up the rear of the delegation and also of the division.

EIGHTH DIVISION.

The Eighth Grand Division, commanded by Capt. Julius Montzheimer, formed on Liberty street, with the right resting on Water, and when the left of the Seventh division had cleared Liberty street, the Eighth followed at division distance and joined in the procession. Following is the order of formation:

Capt. Julius Montzheimer, accompanied by his Assistant Adjutant General, Ben. W. Morgan, and the following aids:

David Kirk,	W. Edwards,
John Gracey,	J. R. Carothers,
J. Livingston,	Wm. N. Haymaker,
Charles Burke,	Henry Chalfant,
Henry M. Long,	George Chalfant,

The division was headed by a wagon representing Nasby's Postoffice, Confederate Cross Roads in Kentucky, distributing campaign documents.

A delegation from Wilkins township followed, consisting of a number of wagons and a company of mounted men. In one of the wagons was a transparency bearing the following inscription: "The tidal wave of Maine has told on Pennsylvania."

In another wagon they carried a banner representing members of the Ku-Klux-Klan murdering Union men.

A delegation from the Twenty-second ward came next, in wagons, bearing a transparency upon which was the following instription: "We whipped the rebels in 1865 and will in 1868."

Then came a delegation from Shady Side, carrying a banner with the following motto: "Rebels and traitors make number one Democrats."

Next in the line was a delegation from East Liberty, consisting of forty wagons, filled with voters.

Two wagons containing a delegation from F. Altaver & Co.'s steam stone saw mill followed, their wagons being tastefully trimmed.

The Fourth ward delegation followed, headed by the Columbia Hook and Ladder Company, forty in number, drawing their hose carriage. The members wore long white water-proof overcoats, and were admirably prepared for the weather. The hose carriage was handsomely decorated.

The Indiana township delegation on horseback and wagons followed, and the delegation from Sharpsburg came next, forming the rear of the Seventh Division. The Sharpsburg delegation was headed by a martial band, and included about twenty wagons. They carried banners, upon which were inscribed various mottos, among which were: "If you want peace, 'Grant' it." "We go for our great hero." "Grant and Colfax, our country's defenders."

CONVENTION POSTPONED.

After the procession reached the Commons, those who had marched four hours in the drenching rain were little disposed to listen to any speech-making as much as they might otherwse have felt anxious to hear the learned and gifted orators announced. It was deemed proper, therefore, to dismiss the various divisions for their homes and the advertised Convention was not held.

RECAPITULATION.

The procession was three hours in passing a given point on Wylie street, or nearly seven miles in length. How many there were in the ranks, on board the wagons and on horseback, would be a difficult matter to determine, but it would be safe to estimate the number somewhere in the neighborhood of fifteen thousand. The column was moved with much order and nicety, reflecting great credit to the officers in charge. No great insult was offered those in the ranks by members of the opposition party, other than the interference at different points by drunken men who got more than they gave.

CONCLUSION.

Thus have passed the two grandest occasions of the campaign in Western Pennsylvania—the torchlight procession and the daylight parade. They were truly formidable and imposing in character, and will not be without their influence at the ballot box if Republicans do not lessen their energies or permit their patriotism and enterprise to flag between this and the day on which will be held the grandest march known to the American citizen—that to the ballot box to exercise the right of a freeman in the depositing of a ballot.

THE MEETING TO-NIGHT.

To-night at City Hall there will be held a grand mass meeting in lieu of the Convention which was to have been held yesterday. Speeches will be made by the old war horse, Dr. George McCook, Governor Hawley, of Connecicut, and the brave General Fisher, of Lancaster, Pa. Let there be such a turn-out as will make amends for the disappointment experienced on all sides yesterday, over the failure to hold an open air meeting.

THE CAPITAL.

Surratt Discharged—Receipts of Customs—Session of Congress—The Soldiers and Sailors' National Convention—Base Ball Match—Marriage of Robert T. Lincoln.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, September 24, 1868.

THE DISCHARGE OF SURRATT.

After the announcement of the decision by Judge Wylie discharging Surratt, many friends congratulated him and he retired from the Court room. The District Attorney filed an appeal from the decision, and the Court adjourned.

CUSTOM RECEIPTS.

The receipts of customs from the 14th to the 19th of September were $3,611,002. The order recently issued to discontinue the office of exports with a drawback on the first of October next, has been revoked and will be continued until the first of January next, for the purpose of disposing of over a thousand accumulated cases.

A QUESTION RAISED.

The Evening Star says we have every reason to believe that the cause of the protracted session of the Cabinet yesterday, was a discussion as to whether there was a session of Congress on the 21st inst. The question being that if there was a session all the appointments made during the recess had terminated, and the offices were now vacant. The President held that he had not been notified of any session and, therefore, did not recognize any.

PROGRAMME OF THE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' CONVENTION.

The following programme for the Soldiers and Sailors' National Convention to be held at Philadelphia, on the first and second of October, has just been determined on by the Soldiers and Sailors' National Executive Committee:

On the first of October, at three P. M., the reception of Delegates by the Mayor in Independence Square. At seven P. M. a mass Convention in Independence Square.

October second, nine A. M., a street parade. Seven P. M., a Mass Meeting in front of the Union League House and a torchlight procession.

BASE BALL MATCH.

The Cincinnati Base Ball Club and the Nationals, of Washington, commenced playing a match game this afternoon. Five innings only were played, a rain storm interrupting further proceedings. At the close of the fifth inning the score stood: Cincinnati 15, Nationals 10. A large number of spectators were in attendance. The Cincinnati Club will play the Olympics tomorrow.

MARRIAGE OF ROBERT T. LINCOLN.

Robert T. Lincoln, eldest son of the late President Lincoln, was married this evening to Mary Harlan, only daughter of Senator Harlan, of Iowa, at the residence of Mr. Harlan, by Bishop Simpson. Secretaries McCulloch and Welles, Senator Ramsey, Representative Loughridge, Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, Senator and Mrs. Harlan and a few other persons were present.

—Mrs. Sealy and Mrs. Sullivan were killed Thursday evening by falling under a train of cars at Waterford, N. L. in attempting to get upon the cars while in motion.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

A. C. ROSS, of Zanesville, Ohio, author of the famous 1840 song of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too," sung at a Republican meeting at Zanesville a few evenings since, a song on the same model, some verses of which we append:

What has caused this great commotion, motion, motion
Our country through,
It is a ball rolling on
For General Grant and Colfax too, for General Grant and Colfax, too,
And with them we'll beat Seymour, mour, mour,
Beat Seymour,
And with them we'll beat Seymour.

It's the same old ball of Eighteen forty, forty, forty, started anew—
Like them—it will roll and gather on,
For General Grant and Colfax too, for General Grant and Colfax too, &c.

It was started out by the Green Mountain boys, boys, boys,
A few days ago,
They sent it along, thirty thousand strong.
For General Grant and Colfax too, for General Grant and Colfax, too, &c.

As it rolls along it will stop at Maine, Maine, Maine,
And the Boys in Blue
Will add twenty thousand and let it roll on
With General Grant and Colfax too, &c.

Let Seymour call the mob his friends, friends, friends,
And the Rebels too,
But the Boys in Blue will put them through
With General Grant and Colfax, too, &c.

The Locos say that Grant's a tanner, tanner, tanner,
That's all very true,
And they are bound to get a tanning
From General Grant and Colfax, too, &c.

The Rebel flag will never do, do, do,
For the Boys in Blue,
They much prefer the Stars and Stripes
With General Grant and Colfax too, &c.

The battle o'er the victory won, won, won,
The boys in Blue
Will then escort to Washington
General Grant and Colfax too, General Grant and Colfax too,
We'll then have peace, evermore, more, more,
Peace evermore,
We'll then have peace evermore.

How City Clerks Live.

The New York correspondent of the Providence Press describes the life of the clerks in this city.

"Some of the establishments have as many as two hundred clerks in their employ. They are expected to dress well, to keep up with the fashions, so as to be in keeping with the general style of things about them. They must be at business promptly at eight in the morning, a strict account being kept of any failure to do so, which is reported by the head of the department to the general manager. All the day long they are kept on their feet, under watchful eyes, and with a multitude of details to attend to; and at noon they must hurry out for a hasty lunch and be back as soon as possible, flying the day through until seven or eight o'clock at night. In the busy season they are liable to be worked until eleven or twelve o'clock at night; and in the dull season, which comes on the city often enough, they are just as liable to be discharged at a week's notice, even though they have been years in the house, and been faithful in every way.

"It is a well-known fact that New York merchants care nothing for the interests of their clerks; and the lsrger and more prosperous the house, the more anxious it is to save a few dollars by cutting down hands in dull times. The supply of clerks is always so large that at the approach of busy days they can easily fill up again. With the exception of men who bring trade, and are engaged by contract, no clerk is sure of his place beyond the passing week. And for it all what salary is received? By careful search through all branches of trade, it is found the average is not over fifteen dollars a week, falling in some, yes, in many cases, far below that, and rising, in a few exceptions, far above. The head book-keeper of a prominent Broadway house gets a salary of thirteen thousand dollars, while under him are no less than six men, having the brunt of the work to do, who are paid three dollars a day. There are men in other houses who enjoy princely incomes, because they have drawn one of the prizes of trade; they have a trade of their own, which brings in large sums to their employer; they are paid for their work with unstinted hand. But all around them are men without this special advantage, though competent, who are barely getting a living.

Go into other lines of business. An entry clerk in a great grocery or produce or tea house is thought well paid, for the first few years at least, with five hundred salary. He must be a crack penman, and devote himself like a dray horse to business, even to retain the position, where in this overcrowded city so many are eager to get it. A young friend of mine worked six years in one wealthy commission house, giving night and day to the affairs, hoping each season, as he saw his services were worth more than he was getting, that the firm would raise his salary. At last his efficient business quality attracted the attention of a rival company, who offered him a large advance. He announced his intention of leaving his employer, who then woke up to his value, and told him he could not spare him, and wanted him to name the salary he wished. And this is a fair sample of the mercantile style in New York.

A WRITER in the new number of the Galaxy tells an unseasonable story of the late "heated term" in Boston, which is very refreshing reading in hot weather. He says a purchaser calling at a hardware shop in that city was surprised to find all three clerks at the rear of the store, where three pairs of large blacksmith's bellows, which, when opened, will slowly collapse by their own weight. Each clerk had a bellows nose stuck up the leg of his trousers, and was allowing the breeze from the enormous wind machine to gently blow up his leg, meanwhile dipping from a bowl of iced lager to cool off the inner man. The customer was so struck by the ingenuity of this contrivance that he left the young gentlemen undisturbed with their Æolian attachmen.

A BUCKET HOUSE is an institution peculiar to New York. It is a distill house where the liquor in common use among the base population is made. It is the vilest stuff imaginable, and is sold from half a pint to a pailfull. It is called the bucket house because the liquor is sold by the bucket. The price charged is five cents. It is expected that anything will be filled that is brought and at the same price. Parties come not only with buckets and pails, but with pans, bowls, coffee pots, pitchers and every conceivable thing that will hold liquor. The keeper of one of the most notorious of these bucket houses has admitted that he sold in one day $1,900 worth of this vile stuff.—N. Y. Letter.

OF poor Miss Menken's "Infelicia" the Saturday Review observes:

"The mental impressions with which one closes this queer souvenir are sublimely confused. One has a bleared panorama of death and sighs and blood and tears and fire and general gloom and watery ghastliness. We can only hope that the poor adorable one drew on her imagination for her misery, or else be glad that the Pale Horse has carried the best rider he ever bore well away from it all."

THE wickedest man in New York has failed as a lecturer. He opened at Stamford, Connecticut, his audience being six persons, and the wickedest man, with a Five Point clergyman, who accompanied him, and his little son, departed without exhibiting. The wickedest man must stick to his Water street surroundings; away from there he is not at home.

TTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, } THURSDAY, September 24, 1868. }

CRUDE.

The Crude market was again very rong and considerably excited to-day, d, compared with vesterday, prices have ill further advanced. Sale of 10,000 bbls, be delivered between now and January t, seller's option, at 11¼c; 1,000 each October, November and December at 12½c; 000 each same months, at same figure; 000 each same months, at 11¾c, and 1,000 October at 12¼c. No sales of spot oil ported, but as October sold at 12½c, imediate delivery ought to command the me figure. The course of the market ring the past few days has taken many erators by surprise, especially those who uld rather have seen it go the other way; d even the bulls themselves are sured, so marked and unexpected has been reaction.

REFINED.

The Refined market was also considerly excited and firm, and compared with sterday, prices have still further adnced. The only sale reported was 2,500 ls for September at 33c—though it was mored that there had been sales made t at 33½c. October was offered at 32 to c—no quotations for either November December. We were glad to notice that ne of our friends who had bought nes" for future months, some time since, which for a time promised to turn out lly, are looking much better. We want better barometer of the oil market than countenances of some of these parties—lance is sufficient for any one at all consant with the trade.

RIVER NEWS.

There was little or no business transacted at the landing yesterday, the time and attention of our steamboatmen being absorbed in the the great mass Convention. Aside from this, it is not likely that there would have been much done, as it rained in torrents during the greater part of the day, and as a general thing shipments are always very meagre during the same kind of weather.

The Bayard arrived and departed for Parkersburg on time.

The Glasgow arrived from Cincinnati, about eleven o'clock on Wednesday night

The Kate Putnam, Capt. G. W. Reed, is announced to leave for St. Louis this evening, and as she will be the first boat out, passengers and shippers should bear this in mind. She will be followed by the Bellevernon, Capt. J. J. Darragh.

Capt. W Kerr has purchased tho Kenton for the Pittsburgh and Portsmouth trade—price either eight or nine thousand dollars, we could not ascertain certainly which. Although about eight years old she is in good order for business.

Tow boats were busily engaged in getting tows of coal ready yesterday, and some of them took their departure.

The Ida Rees, Capt. Albert, with Mr. J. H. Rees, in the office, is announced for Memphis, and all other intermediate points.

The Armenia, and Armadillo were expected to arrive at St. Louis on Wednesday.

The Antelope and Ingomar collided at Grave Creek—Ingomar had her whole side knocked off. No other particulars.

—The Lorena and Leni Leoti are loading at Cincinnati for New Orleans.

—Captain Dan. W. Marratt is still an invalid at Rochester, Pa., but is improving slowly.

—The Allegheny Belle left Cincinnati Tuesday for Pittsburgh with three barges in tow, containing 150 tons pig iron.

—The Gem, which is "running on her own hook" in the Illinois river trade, is reported as having struck a long, doing some damages to her bottom.

—A passenger on board the Cincinnati and Louisville mailboat America, three a diam nd ring, valued at $800, from a basin in which he had just been washing hands, the ring having slipped off while washing.

—The Dubuque Herald, of Sunday, says: Racing and competion is now the order of things on the lower river. The disease is spreading all along the river, but has not opened here very fiercely. Now is the time to travel. If you have any visits to make up or down river, start at once before the rivalry ceases and fares advance.

—Says the Cincinnati Commercial, of Wednesday: Capt. Alex. Morris, of the towboat Baltic, fell overboard from that steamer Monday night, near Richmond, and was drowned. The steward was conversing with him in the pilot-house about 10 p. m. He left the pilot-house shortly afterward, which was the last seen of him. As soon as he was missed the boat was rounded to and came on back to this port, searching for him on the way, but, as yet, nothing has been heard from him. Captain Morris resided in Pittsburgh, and was between 40 and 45 years of age. He leaves a family in Pittsburgh .....Capt. Yerkes informs us he has already commenced suit against the owners of the Norman for possession of that steamer, which he claims to have purchased a few days since.

—A Louisville telegram says: The owners of the J. P. Webb, that sunk by running into the bank after decending the falls, have sued pilot William Varble in the Common Pleas Court for damages. He is a licensed falls pilot, and had charge of the boat at the time. Holding pilots accountable in a pecuniary way for losses by disaster is a new theory in steamboating; but a trio of lawyers are sanguine of making it a possible case, and it will be called in the course of the regular docket. The City Council of New Albany have adopted an ordinance which exempts steamboats, undergoing repairs or being refitted, from paying wharfage for a period of 60 days. The Messenger passed down for St. Louis.

—The St. Louis Dispatch says: The fight for the trade of the Upper Mississippi grows hotter each successive day, and it is a hard matter to keep up, or rather down, with the rapid reduction which are being made in passenger and freight rates. The Northern Line announce their rates of freight to Keokuk as eight cents per hundred, while Capt. Hutchinson says he is prepared to take freight at lower rates than any other line. Each line is represented to-day by one of their very best boats—the Keokuk line by the Rob Roy, the Northern line by the Sucker State, while the White Collard and Phil Sheridan represents the Northwestern. Such lively competition is sure to largely increase the trade of our city, but whether it will benefit any of the packet companies is an open question.

Gold Closed in New York yesterday at 141¾.

IT HAS CEASED to be a matter of consequence with which political party Secretary SEWARD ranges himself; but it is a fact that he has declared for GRANT.

PHILADELPHIA is right. All the accounts we receive represent that the Republican majority in October will at least equal, and perhaps surpass, any majority heretofore obtained in that city.

THE Republicans of the XXth district, having concurred in the nomination of Mr. GILFILLAN for the XLIst Congress, are discussing the election of a candidate for the unexpired term of the late Mr. FINNEY.

A REPUBLICAN Mass Meeting will be held at Irwin's Station on Saturday next. A special FREE train will leave the Union Depot at 12 o'clock at noon., returning at 9:30 P. M. It is highly desirable that at least five hundred Republicans from town should go up.

EX-SECRETARY STANTON is at Steubenville, and the Herald announces that he will appear at the Union meeting in that place to-day, "to take counsel with his former fellow-citizens as to the duties of the people in view of the political exigencies involved in the present Presidential canvass."

A DEMOCRATIC BARBECUE, held at Thompson's Station, Williamson county, Tennessee, was attended by fifteen hundred negroes. The orators for the occasion frankly admitted that the result of the election would be determined by the blacks, and manifested the deepest solicitude to have them vote with the Democrats. What can be done to save the Democrats from sinking to an equality with the negroes?

AMONG the latest accessions to the cause of GRANT AND PEACE are JAMES T. BRADY, the distinguished Irish lawyer, and JOHN J. CISCO, Assistant sub-Treasurer, both of New York. The letter of Gen. DIX was addressed to this latter gentleman, and by him given to the public. Mr. CISCO has always been known as a Democratic leader, and does not suffer materially by the Copperhead accusation that he is a party to a "Radical electioneering dodge."

THE QUEEN OF SPAIN is so hard pressed by the insurgents that she has offered to abdicate on condition that she shall name her successor to the throne. Reduced to such straits, it is not probable her offer will be accepted, or that she will find means either to retain the scepter or to enforce terms. A fine country and a noble people, cursed for ages by a wretched dynasty, presents a deplorable spectacle. It looks as if there was vitality enough left to institute a better frame of government. The will to attempt that object is in itself encouraging.

HIS enemies say that General GRANT can't make a speech, that he has no capacity for statesmanship, and that his administration will prove a failure. One very prominent fact, however, disposes of these weak inventions. It is this, that of all the great statesmen and orators whom the Republic has produced, but one—ABRAHAM LINCOLN—has contributed to current politics or to history so many remarkably concise and comprehensive saying as are to be found in the short letters of General GRANT. Some of these are effectively used in this canvass, and many more would be found well adapted for that purpose as crystalized expressions of modesty, patriotism and practical wisdom.

RALLY AT CITY HALL TO-NIGHT.

As speech-making was rendered impossible yesterday at the Mass Meeting by the terrible inclemeny of the weather, two of the gentlemen selected for the occasion have consented to stay over to address our people to-night. The meeting will be in the City Hall. Dr. GEORGE MCCOOK, who was to have presided yesterday will preside on this occasion, and will speak. He will be followed by Governor J. R. HAWLEY, of Connecticut, one of the most gallant soldiers of the war, and President of the Chicago Convention that nominated GRANT and COLFAX. He will be succeeded by Gen. J. W. FISHER of Lancaster, another soldier and orator of distinction.

Republicans! let the Hall be packed to hear the views these three eminent citizens have to present on the issues pending in the canvass.

INVINCIBLE ENTHUSIASM.

When morning broke over these sister municipalities, yesterday, the clouds hung heavy and dun. Soon rain began to fall. It continued to pour all the afternoon. Nevertheless the various divisions of the Grand Procession began to form. Looking at the weather the meeting seemed to be a complete failure. Looking at the men a deep impression was quickly received that the meeting would prove to be a success unmatched at any time in Western Pennsylvania, and altogether unprecedented anywhere considering the attending unpropitious circumstances. Delegation after delegation came pouring in from the surrounding districts, until the streets of both cities and boroughs were filled with vehicles and men.

At twelve the Procession started. The rain was falling heavily, but the enthusiasm of the people was superior to the natural obstacle. For three hours the steady stream of the vast throng moved onward, cheer after cheer rising and swelling along the line. All this while there was not a moment's intermission of the storm. The rain appeared to fall faster and faster. Drenched to the skin, the men maintained the utmost good humor, but would not forego the demonstration that had been appointed for that particular day.

As fast as the delegations reached the Allegheny Common, where the stands for speaking had been erected, they dispersed. To stand, in drenched garments, and listen to argument and appeal, was not to be thought of. What was more, that vast multitude had exhibited a conviction, a determination, an enthusiasm, which made oratory superfluous. Nothing could be more pertinent, emphatic, convincing and suasory than their self-imposed and cheerful endurance of the pitiless rain.

Undoubtedly the Procession would have been much larger than it was had the weather been fair. Thousands had prepared to take part in it whose delicacy of health compelled them to refrain. So, too, the ensigns, banners, mottoes, devices and trappings would have presented a gayer appearance if there had been no rain. But, no addition to numbers, and no increase in the splendor of the pageant, could have produced the effect, fully up to the moral sublime, of those thousands upon thousands of determined men, encountering the storm, and absolutely vanquishing it.

If doubt can be imagined to have existed before as to what the men of Pittsburgh and the surrounding district really felt and intend to do, no trace of it by any conceivable possibility now remains. The pouring rain and the jubilant march left not the faintest thread of uncertainty. Allegheny will equal and surpass her old and honorable renown. Western Pennsylvania, on the 13th of October, will roll up larger majorities than ever before, and send her cheers of victory over the Alleghenies to the sister counties beyond with wilder delight and a nobler enthusiasm than was ever witnessed in the past.

THE Indiana Republicans promise 15,000 majority in October, and 25,000 in November; those of Ohio, 25,000 in October and 30,000 in November; those of Illinois 65,000; those of Missouri 30,000; those of Wisconsin from 15,000 to 25,000; and those of Iowa 40,000. These figures not only look well, but will be made good.

Besides, from information received at Washington, North Carolina, Alabama and Louisiana are now sure to give Republican majorities. Florida, South Carolina, and Arkansas have been certain all along. Nor are hopes of carrying Georgia without foundation. Delaware, Oregon, New Jersey and New York remain to be contested. In New Jersey it seems to be conceded that Mr. BLAIR, Republican, will be elected Governor, while the Democrats claim the electors for SEYMOUR and BLAIR. New York Republicans think they see their way through to victory, and are working in a manner entitling them to success.

A CORRESPONDENT of the Cincinnati Commercial, after detailing his conversations in Kentucky with various politicians, says:

As a summary of what I saw and heard in Kentucky, I can only say, that if the people over there mean anything at all by their talk, they mean fight, and in the event of a Democratic victory, will inaugurate it at once. They seem to be desperate over the loss of slavery and political power in the nation, and they now feel like doing what they did not in 1861, going into the fight as a State as well as individuals.

WHAT BUSINESS MEN INTEND.

When the leaders of the Democratic party took up the task of determining upon what points they would rest their chances in the presidential canvass now progressing, they found the needful discrimination delicate and difficult. During the rebellion their disloyalty was so conspicuous that they necessarily rested under a weight of odium exceedingly damaging. It was politic, if not indispensable, to avoid topics that should lead to a searching review of their conduct. Not that they had recanted any of their pernicious ideas and intentions, but simply wished to cover them from observation. Beyond this, and in consistency with their settled and traditional plan of operations, it was held by them to be of the utmost utility to devise a low and sordid appeal to the passions and prejudices of the most ignorant and depraved classes of the population. After deliberating maturely they decided that a clamor against the holders of government bonds would be as well adapted to their genius and to the jealousies and hatreds of their followers as any thing they could hit upon. In accordance with these judgments they proceeded, and are still acting. On both hands they have, doubtless, discovered by this time that they were mistaken.

However fickle the popular mind may be reputed to be by superficial observers, the Democratic leaders must now be convinced that it has qualities of marvellous retentiveness, and that when it has been grievously and persistently offended, it is terribly unrelenting, and will be satisfied only with the most exhaustive expiations. In vain was it that in their National Platform they professed the most profound submission to many of the grand results wrought out by the suppression of the revolt, the abrogation of Slavery and the condemnation of Secession included. The men who stood by the government through all the storm and tempest of the war would not believe in the genuineness of their repentance or the sincerity of their declarations. They have and are rigidly judged by the record they made for themselves during the great struggle.

Indeed, their palpable affiliation with the rebel chieftains, their fraternization with them in the New York National Convention, and their ill-concealed partnership with them in fresh enterprises against the Union and Civil Liberty, drew down upon them a fresh outpouring of patriotic displeasure, which, under any circumstances, it would have been impossible for them to make head against.

But their embarrassments were indefinitely increased by the issue they started on the Bond Question. Their heated denunciations of the bondholders and their dissimulated commiseration of the taxpayers, elicited rapturous applause from a considerable class of citizens who pay no taxes, or next to none, and who never held a bond and did not conceive it possible that they ever should. This was natural.

In the pro-Slavery times something closely akin hereto was constantly turning up all over the Southern States. Men who never owned a slave, and had not sufficient intellect and industry to get money enough ahead to buy one, were loudest in vituperating the Abolitionists whom they charged with conspiring "to steal OUR SLAVES FROM US." So, this year, the Democratic leaders did not find it hard to get thousands of men who paid no taxes, or next to none, and would have to be entirely made over again in their habits and capabilities before they would save up enough to get into the assessment rolls, to shout themselves hoarse about the oppressive taxation the people were compelled to endure; and this while all the heavy tax-payers were showing no discontent with the loads they were carrying. But there was another and potential class the Democratic leaders had not sufficiently taken into the account; and this class included most of the active business men of the loyal States.

How were they to be affected by a successful crusade against the honor of the nation and the existing financial system. The redemption of the Bonds with Greenbacks inevitably implies the breaking up of all the National Banks, and that involves a liquidation of all credits obtained from those institutions, and the creation of a new set of financial instrumentalities throughout the whole length and breadth of the country. It was easy to set in motion a mischievous agitation for the accomplishment of this end; but they must have been blind or demented who conceived that the business men of the Republic would sit down supinely, with their hands folded, and let this scheme be consummated.

Unavoidably it would open a chasm across the current of business affairs into which at least one-half the individuals actively engaged in manufacturing, merchandizing and commerce would be plunged headlong, to come out again only through the door of Discharge in Bankruptcy. A hiatus of thirty days in the present bank accommodations would produce this result. Business men see this, and are acting in view of it.

This is what we foresaw and predicted from the beginning. We never participated in the foolish fears entertained by some Republicans as to the Greenback issue raised by the Democrats. All along we proclaimed that it would be the ruin of them, as it ought to be. There is an inherent sense of honor and justice in the breasts of the people, and an appeal made to them to engage in wholesale swindling was forecordained to miscarry. But when the personal selfishness of all the business classes led them in the path of national honesty, there was not the slightest room to doubt what the upshot of Greenback dodge would be. It is breaking the back of the Democratic party just as fast as the State elections are held. They dug a pit for their neighbors, and are falling into it themselves, and no earthly power can rescue them, and the higher power will not. This will be more clearly manifest to the apprehension of multitudes a month hence than it is now. The decree of Fate against the Repudiators is already made up, and judgment will soon issue against them, while Republicans from Maine to California will join in welcoming the auspicious result.

But, during the intervening days, business men must not relax their efforts. They have the repudiators on the down grade. Let them increase their efforts to keep them there, and to accelerate their headlong motion. Remember that to this end one vote in October is worth a dozen votes in November. Be up and doing.

IT IS wonderful and instructive to notice how invariably, when a man sets up for a Democratic leader, how soon he comes to distrust government by the people, and throw out hints of a "master" over Congress. The latest specimen is afforded by Mr. EDGAR COWAN. In a late speech at a Democratic meeting he said: "Of one thing I can assure a Radical Congress, that GEN. GRANT will be able to be their master, and I believe the masses of the Republican Party would be pleased and delighted if he treated them as a master."

"The wish is father to the thought," that's all.

THE REBEL PROGRAMME.

The designs of the copperhead Democracy North and South, are frankly stated by one of their most prominent organs, the Louisville Journal, in the following:

"Now our opinion, an opinion as to the rectitude of which we have not even a moment's doubt, is, that the three States named, Virginia, Mississippi and Texas, without the slightest deference or regard to the infamously partisan and unconstitutional legislation of Congress, and without taking the least account of the absence of enabling orders or paying any attention whatever to threats issuing from under the shadow of cocked hats and epaulettes, should, on the day of the election of Presidential electors throughout the United States, proceed to the election of electors just as if there were no such things as Congressional disabling law, a fierce hat, or a shoulder strap. Let them elect their electors, for we do not suppose that they need be deterred from the exercise of that prerogative by the fear of satraps and their bayonets. Let them by all means elect their electors and leave the consequences to the people of the nation, themselves included. We can assure them, that, if they shall elect Seymour and Blair electors, and if the counting of the votes of their electors would give Seymour and Blair a majority in the electoral college of the country, the votes of their electors will be counted and Seymour and Blair placed in the Presidency and Vice Presidency, be the cost what it may. If we will not fight for our rights, we have no right to have rights—or at any rate to talk about them."

The Maine Election.

The annexed statements from the Portland Press of the 21st have been beautifully confirmed by the dispatch published yesterday, announcing 20,519 as the complete official majority and the Press says:

We give this morning returns from 417 cities, towns and plantations of the vote for Governor on the 14th instant. These returns are largely compiled from those made by the respective town clerks to the Secretary of State. The vote thrown is an enormous one—the largest by nearly seven thousand ever given in this State. The heaviest vote ever before thrown in this State was that of 1860, when it counted up to 124,000. This year it will be near 131,000. The aggregate vote of the 417 towns given this morning, excluding the few scattering votes, is 129,830, of which Governor Chamberlain has 74,809, and Mr. Pillsbury 55,021; giving a majority for Gov. Chamberlain of 19,788, which will be increased to 20,000 by the few remaining returns to come in. The majority for Gov. Chamberlain, in our opinion, will not vary five hundred either way from twenty thousand.

At the election in 1860, when the largest vote was thrown that has been known in the State, excepting that of this year, the Republican majority was 15,925. In that year nearly every voter was out, and while the Republicans threw 70,030 votes, there were 54,105 thrown against them. Compared with the vote of last year in the towns given, the Republican gain is 7,772. This is glory enough for the campaign thus far, but we shall do better for Grant and Colfax by thousands.

The Played Out Democracy.

The poverty of the Democratic party will probably make it expire before election day. Mr. Seymour has been trying to negotiate a Democratic party loan on the house of Rothschild, through August Belmont, the same to be secured in United States bonds in case of his accession. If this desperate proffer be not accepted, the entire Democratic newspaper press will expire within three weeks. The printers have not been paid rum-money, and who can set up Democratic editorials without stimulants? These printers are not avaricious men, and are willing to work their fingers out to the bone for the party, but they express themselves as prepared to be hammedindell (a German word signifying reduced to saur kraut,) if they will work sober. Said a foreman of Philadelphia to a venerable Democratic proprietor there the other day:

"Milch, the men want rum. They want their little beer. They don't ask for no fat matter. They don't say they're going to strike. They don't want what you owe 'em! If you'd offer it to 'em they wouldn't accept of it. No, they wouldn't! They too honabul. But grog must be presented. It's the immediate jewel of their souls. We have to go so far back into antiquity when we set your editorials that our stummicks fail!"

At this point confused voices were heard coming down the blow-pipe from the printer's loft:

"Where's that kag? We're going to pawn the composing-stones!"

Mr. Milch flew to the pipe.

"I have it!" he said, "draw all the leads and send 'em around to Melchezdiek's! What in General Jackson do people want spaced matter for when the country is in danger? If necessary shove up the proof-roller! As a last resort, get a loan on all the brevier and set up the entire sheet in diamond!"

Mr. Milch sat down to conclude his article upon what Mr. Calhoun had predicted in the memorable year of 1827.

A cry came down the pipe, dry and thirsty as a simoon in the autumn woods:

"Three cheers for Seymour and Blair!"

So with the Democratic stump. The orators are provided with the usual commissary ration of whisky and get on tolerably well. But the rum-fund is totally inadequate to raise a cheer. The most that can be got out of a Democratic audience this year is the genuine rebel yell. That comes more naturally and expresses the sentiment better.—G. A. T. Cleve. Leader.

IT IS said that white men cannot live in the South unless the white man's grass is sown. To cover the South with grass will reduce negro wages to ten cents a day. Alas! negro labor has made the land so poor that grass on most farms will not grow,

Eight Hundred Miles Completed.

Another one hundred-mile post has been reached on the Union Pacific Railroad; not many times more can we repeat this report, which has comes to us eight times within two years past, before the whole line to the Pacific ocean will be complete, and the longest railroad in the world will be in successful operation. Less than one year ago the achievement of five hundred miles was made the occasion for national congratulation that half a thousand miles of the national railroad had been built; now three hundred miles have been added, and the Indian-summer days will see the tracklayers at or beyond the point which marks nine hundred miles. Such rapidity of construction unparalleled in the history of railroading, has not been attained at the expense of safety or permanence, as is testified by the government commissioners appointed to examine and report upon the road, and by a multitude of intelligent eye-witnesses of the condition and working of the road. The Union Pacific railroad has been frequently referred to as a national work. The extent of this nationality has just been made strikingly manifest by a report upon army transportation on the Plains, recently made by the United States Quartermatter General. From this report, it appears that the price paid the railroad for transportation of army freight is only about one-fourth that paid for similar service by wagonr. The amount paid the railroad in 1867, for such transportation, was about $700,000, and the same amount of transportation by wagons at the contract price for that year, would have cost $2,625,536. In other words, the saying to the Government by the railroad, in rne year, with an average of 386 miles in operation, was almost two million dollars. Gen. Sherman well said that Government could better afford to build the road entirely at its own expense than to have it remain unbuilt.

The Treasurer's report shaws the ne earnings for the year ending June 30, 1868, to have been over four million dollars. This, of course, was on way business alone, and gives only a hint of what the total traffic will be when the road shall be complete.

Blair and the Platform.

The World says:

If there is anything in his Brodhead letter inconsistent with the platform, he renounced it in accepting the nomination.

Brick Pomeroy rejoins:

Frank Blair's letter is a part of the platform. Thank God, he is not a marble that can wobble backward and forward from platform to platform like a sick rat for toasted cheese. He wrote that letter for two human reasons:

First—He knew what he meant, and wished the public to know it, too.

Second—He desired a nomination, and deemed that a good way to get it.

He was right, it seems, that no man can more heartily despise the journal that insidiously opens the door for a dishonorable retreat than he.

The Prospect in California.

A private letter, received from Judge Crane, of Alameda, California, in alluding to the political situation in California, says, "Politically, California looks brighter and brighter, and you may count with great safety on a rousing majority for Grant and Colfax in the Golden State. The Hon Charles Clay, who was elected Democratic Senator from Santa Clare County last fall, has signified his adhesion to the Republican platform, and he will vote and use his influence for the election of Grant and Colfax.

—L. D. Porter of Hartford, Conn., has disappeared, leaving forged acceptances to the amount of thirty thousand dollars in that city and vicinity.

DR. SARGENT'S BACKACHE PILLS

Are the most efficient and most popular Diuretic medicine known, removing at once any obstruction of the Kidneys, subduing Inflamation and strengthening the Urinary Organs.

Dr. Sargent's Backache Pills

Have been in use 35 years, and are daily performing wonderful cures. In many instances where patients were unable to walk upright or to rise without assistance, they have been relieved by a single dose.

Dr. Sargent's Backache Pills

Cure all diseases of the Urinary Organs, the symptoms of which are weakness and pain in the back and loins, pains in the joints, difficulty in voiding the urine, general debility, &c.

THE KIDNEYS, BLADDER, &C.,

Are those organs through which most of the waste or worn out particles of the body passes; these worn out and dead particles are poisonous, consequently when these organs are diseased the whole system becomes deranged, and if not relieved at once the result may be fatal.

This much esteemed and most efficient medicine is the only diuretic that is put up in the shape of Pills, and is much more easily taken than the ordinary diuretic draughts, the Pills being sugar coated

HAS SUMMER ENFEEBLED YOU?

Nine out of every ten to whom this question is addressed, if they answer it candidly, will answer it in the affirmative. Some may reply to it from a sick bed; others, of a stronger constitution and greater powers of endurance, may only experience a slight lassitude as the consequence of the torrid season. But some portion of the vitality of all human beings oozes out of them under the pressure of great and continuous heat, and the sooner the loss is completely repaired, the less susceptible will the system be to the unhealthy influence of the Fall malaria.

The most genial and wholesome tonic that has ever been offered to man—as a means of recruiting his exhausted strength, and fortifying him against the attacks of disease—is HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Taken at this season it is a perfect safeguard against intermittent fever, bilious affections, and all the epidemics which follow close upon the expiration of the Summer. It is an invigorant and alterative without any of the drawbacks which attach to mere stimulants, and is the only preparation of the kind which a conscientious physician would feel inclined to prescribe for ladies in delicate health. Nothing can be more pure, more harmless, more certain to restore the vigor of the system permanently and thoroughly, without exciting the pulse or the brain.

DISEASED LUNGS.

There is no doubt whatever that diseases of the lungs, or ulcers of whatever sort, on any of the internal organs may be and are frequently cured, and a complete condition of health established. If the elaborative functions, of which the stomach is the primary and most important one, are restored to a condition to do the repairing of the human system, ulcers or sores, whether upon the lungs the liver, the kidneys or the bowels, or upon the legs, as is frequently the case, can be made to heal, and a complete standard of health re-established.

We have frequently seen these results from the use of Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE, a pleasant and agreeable medicine, which will ripen up and carry out the animal economy all effete and used up material. Dr. KEYSER'S LUNG CURE is enriched by some of the most valuable plants and herbs known to be useful and curative in all deteriorated states of the human blood, and whilst it adds to its plasma, it at the same time stimulates, gently but effectively, the skin, the kidneys, the liver and the glandular system to sufficient action to enable the body to take on healthful action and eradicate the disease. The sick and afflicted should bear in mind the virtues of this great medicine, and if those who are sufficiently alive to the importance of health, will resort to it in the beginning of a cough or cold, there would be no falling into declines and rapid consumption, so hopelessly incurable, and so most surely fatal. Let any one afflicted with any pulmonary disease try but one bottle, and they will be convinced of the value of Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure. Sold by the gross, dozen or single bottle, at Dr. KEYSER'S Great Medicine Store, 140 Wood St.

This Company, National in its character, offers, by reason of the Large Capital, Low Rates of Premium and New Tables, the most desirable means of insuring life yet presented to the public.
The rates of premium being largely reduced, are made as favorable to the insurers as those of the best Mutual Companies, and avoid all the complications and uncertainties of Notes, Dividends and the misunderstandings which the latter are so apt to cause the Policy-Holders.
Several new and attractive tables are now presented which need only to be understood to prove acceptable to the public, such as INCOME-PRODUCING POLICY and RETURN PREMIUM POLICY. In the former, the policy-holder not only secures a life insurance, payable at death, but will receive, if living, after a period of a few years, an annual income of ten per cent. 10 per cent.) of the par of his policy. The latter the Company agrees to return to the assured the total amount of money he has paid in, in addition to the amount of his policy.
The attention of persons contemplating insuring their lives or increasing the amount of insurance they already have, is called to the special advantages offered by the National Life Insurance Company.
Circulars, Pamphlets and full particulars given on application to the Branch Office of the Company in Philadelphia, or its General Agents.
☞LOCAL AGENTS ARE WANTED in every City and Town; and applications from competent parties for such agencies with suitable endorsement, should be addressed TO THE COMPANY'S GENERAL AGENTS ONLY, in their respective districts.

UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD.

700 MILES
OF THE
UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD

Are now finished and in operation. 160 miles of track have been laid this spring, and the work along the whole line between the Atlantic and Pacific States is being pushed forward more rapidly than ever before. More than twenty thousand men are employed, and it is not impossible that the entire track, from Omaha to Sacramento, will be finished in 1869 instead of 1870. The means provided are ample, and all that energy, men and money can do to secure the completion of this

GREAT NATIONAL WORK,

At the earliest possible day, will be done.

The UNION PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY receive:

I.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right of way, and all necessary timber and other materials found along the line of its operations.

II.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of 12,800 acres of land to the mile, taken in alternate sections on each side of its road. This is an absolute donation, and will be a source of large revenue in the future.

III.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of United States Thirty-year Bonds, amounting to from $16,000 to $48,000 per mile, according to the difficulties to be surmounted on the various sections to be built. The Government takes a second mortgage as security, and it is expected that not only the interest, but the principal amount may be paid in services rendered by the Company in transporting troops, mails, &c. The interest is now much more than paid in this way, besides securing a great saving in time and money to the Government.

IV.—A GOVERNMENT GRANT of the right to issue its own FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS, to aid in building the road, to the same amount as the U. S. Bonds, issued for the same purpose, and no more. The Government permits the Trustees for the First Mortgage Bondholders to deliver the Bonds to the Company only as the road is completed, and after it has been examined by United States Commissioners and pronounced to be in all respects a first-class Railroad, laid with a heavy T rail, and completely supplied with depots, stations, turnouts, carshops, locomotives, cars, &c.

V.—A CAPITAL STOCK SUBSCRIPTION from the stockholders, of which OVER EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS have been paid in upon the work already done, and which will be increased as the wants of the Company require.

VI.—NET CASH EARNINGS on its Way Business, that already amount to MORE THAN THE INTEREST on the First Mortgage Bonds. These earnings are no indication of the vast through traffic that must follow the opening of the line to the Pacific, but they certainly prove that upon such a property, costing nearly three times their amount, ARE SECURE BEYOND ANY CONTINGENCY.

FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS

The Union Pacific Bonds run thirty years, are for $1,000 each, and have coupons attached. They bear annual interest, payable on the first days of January and July, at the Company's Office, in the City of New York, at the rate of six per cent. in gold. The Principal is payable in gold at maturity. The price is 102, and at the present rate of gold, they pay a liberal income on their cost.

The Company believe that these Bonds, at the present rate, are the cheapest in the market, and reserve the right to advance the price at any time.

Subscriptions will be received in Pittsburgh by JAMES T. BRADY & Co., corner of Wood and Fourth Streets;
HART, CAUGHEY & Co., corner of Wood and Third Streets;
S. McCLEAN & CO., 75 Fourth Street;
PH. R. MERTZ, corner 5th and Wood Sts.;
ROBINSON BROS., 78 Fourth street;
AND IN NEW YORK
At the Company's Office, No. 20 Nassau Street, and by JOHN J. CISCO & SON, Bankers, No. 59 Wall Street, and by the Company's advertised agents throughout the United States.

Remittances should be made in drafts or other funds par in New York, and the Bonds will be sent free of charge by return express. Parties subscribing through local agents, will look to them for their safe delivery.

A PAMPHLET AND MAP FOR 1868 has just been published by the Company, giving fuller information than is possible in an advertisement, respecting the Progress of the Work, the Resources of the Country traversed by the Road, the Means for Construction, and the Value of the Bonds, which will be sent free on application at the Company's offices, or to any of the advertised agents.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, September, 23, 1868.

Gold declined still further to-day to 141¾, and closed weak at that, without any immediate cause more than an apprehension that money will be scarce at the close of the month, on account of the quarterly statement of the National Banks. Although there is little doubt but that we will not be obliged to remit coin to Europe to balance our imports, and gold should command 144½, and be cheap at that at the beginning of the week, and now be worth but 140 the limst put on by the wise men of Wall street. We have so far only secured one part of the crops of the country, and the main reliance of the southwest, and west middle districts is placed on corn, fruit and potatoes; if these are not secured in a good condition, a large amount of our surplus wheat crop will have to be used, and the amount for export on wheat and flour be considerably reduced; the same is due to cotton and an over-estimate of the product may put a different face on the balance of the trade by January next.

Government securities were very dull and lower to-day; the tendency being for lower prices, and as we said all along, there is no demand for investment at present prices.

Stocks are firm, and are at the bottom of a new rise caused by the facility of carrying them for an unlimited time. Express stocks are very strong and advancing; so is Erie, which is indeed the cheapest stock on the list.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, September 24, 1868.

CATTLE.

There was an unusually large supply of Cattle on sale during yesterday and to-day, the pens being full and overflowing; there was a good attendance of buyers, however, and the market was a brisk one, though upon the whole, prices ruled a shade lower. The sales since Friday evening last footed up 1,090 head, at prices ranging from 3,50 to 8,50, and these may be regarded as the extremes of the market. There were but very few sold at the outside quotation, and nothing but very extra fat steers will command that figure. Good to prime shipping cattle may be quoted at 7 to 7,50, and medium do at 6 to 6,50. Stock cattle, such as are usually bought by stock feeders from Lancaster, Dauphin and adjoining counties in the eastern part of the State, may be quoted at 4 to 5,50.

Holmes, Lafferty & Co. sold to J Rambo 19 head, weighing 20,850, at $6,60; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to Hilderbrand 6, Holmes, Lafferty, & Co. to H. Todd 20, weighing 20,350; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to P. Klemens 34, weighing 29,000 at 7,00; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to P. Klemens 48, weighing 69,800 at 8,50; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to J. Aull 22, weighing 19,230 at 5,00; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to McCamitt & Co. 8 weighing, 7,875 at 5,25; Holmes, Lafferty & Co. to L. Shamburg 3, weighing 3,975 at 4,75; Hedges & Taylor, to J. Hilderbrand 17 weighing 17,825 at 5,50; Hedges & Taylor to J Hilderbrand 12, weighing 13,100 at 6,00; Hedges & Taylor to J McCall 36, weighing 35,125; Hedges & Taylor to W Hedges 6, weighing 6,850 at 6,00; Hedges & Taylor to W Hedges 32, weighing 37,625 at 6,50; Hedges & Taylor to P Klemens 40, weighing 39,050 at 5,25; Hedges & Taylor to McCalmett & Co. 20, weighing 18,700 at 4,50; Hedges & Taylor to H Todd 24, weighing 20,875 at 4,75; Hedges & Taylor to McCamett & Co. 20, weighing 21,675 5,50; Hedges & Taylor to W H Todd 19, weighing 18,600 at 4,60; N Morris to H M Hudstrie 19, weighing 20,125 at 5,00; N Morris to H M Hudstrie 22, weighing 20,350 at 4,75; A Dietrick to Deatrick 12, weighing 12,950 at $65 per head; N Morris to S Winner 43, weighing 42,375 at 4,75; L H Pierce to J McCall, 22 bull, weighing 14,200 at 3,40; J W Arnold to J B Fultz 14, weighing 10,650 at 3,75; Orr & Williams to J Yohn 20, weighing 16,625 at 4,20; N Morris to J Groff 15, weighing 13,375 at 4,25; J Berry to W Hedge 19, weighing 19,850 at 6,75; J Berry to H Todd 33, weighing 29,800 at 4.87; Snider to J Stoffer 18, weighing 20,675 at 6,25; A Hawk to J Groff 6, weighing 4,175 at 4,25; L M Smith to J McArdle, 20 bull, weighing 16,300 at 3,25; Hiskiss to R Mayne, bulls 22, weighing 18,050 at 3,25; Marvin to McCammett, heifers 12, weighing 35,475 at 5 00; A Crawford to J McArdle, bulls 3, weighing 3,175 at 3,12; McGruner to J McArdle, bulls 2, weighing 2,400 at 3,25; McClain to J McArdle, heifers 3, weighing 3,250 at 3,25; J Shepard to J B Fultz 22, weighing 16,650 at 4,00; Allsdorf to J McArdle 27, weighing 23,650 at 5,62; W A McGruder to Hatsburger 20, weighing 16,350 at 5,00; J Crago to J McArdle 15, weighing 11,300 at 4,00; McClain to J McArdle 18, weighing 13,925; W A McGruder to Hatsburger 20, weighing 16,350 at 5,00; B Crago to McArdle 15, weighing 11,300 at 4,00; McClain to McArdle 18, weighing 13,925 at 4,50; J Berry to W Munc 17, weighing 17,550 at 5,37; F D Williams to S Shanburg 40, weighing 36,050 at 5,00; J Hawk to J Aull & Co. 23, weighing 19,300 at 4,50; A Crawford to Stoffer 32, weighing 18,650 at 5,00.

James Stewart sold P Klemens 100 Missouri cattle, averaging 1,125 lbs, at $71 per head.

HOGS.

The Hog market has undergone but little change since the date of our last report. The sales, in the aggregate, foot up 4,828 head, at prices ranging from 8,25 to 11,12½, one choice lot brought 11,15.

Wm. Tilden sold to Singer & Imhoff 95 head at $11,35; S. W. Allerton to Singer & Imhoff 99 at 11,35; W. SHEEP.

The market was poorly suppled with Sheep, both in regard to number and quality, and at the close to-day ther will not be many left over unsold. The whole number sold since Friday evening foots up 5,363 head, at prices ranging from $3,25 to $4,50 per cwt. These quotations however, do not indicate the true condition of the market, as prime to extra fat Sheep, if there had have been any such on sale, would doubtless have brought quarter to half a cent per pound more.

Hedges & Taylor sold to C. Perce 79 head at 4,50; Hedges & Taylor to C Pearce 191 at 3,80; Orr & Williams to C. Pearce 114 at $118 for the lot; Hedges & Taylor to C. Pearce at 27 at 4; R. PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, September, 24, 1868.

The Republican Mass Convention was the great centre of attraction to-day, and business was looked upon and treated as a secondary matter. The great majority of all the leading business houses were closed, and those were open might as well have been closed for all the business they got. Besides, the market in general continues dull and devoid of any new or important characteristics, and prices are without quotable change. This being the case, we omit our usual daily report of the produce markets.

New York Dry Goods Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, September 24.—The dry goods market for the most part is steady but neither active nor bouyant. Catam styles of cotton goods are shrinking in value from day to day, until finally many brands are selling below cost and hence some of the mills are curtailing their production and only running two-thirds of their looms. The most remarkable decline noticeable in goods to-day is in Laconia B Brown Muslins, which are down to one shilling; Bates B have also been sold to some extent at the same price, and are now scarce. The Hanover bleached yard wide muslins are reduced to one shilling by the case and 13½c by the piece, at which they have sold freely. Prints are reduced from 10 to 9½c. These concessions in different grades tend to make buyers cautious and trade less satisfactory than anticipated. In woolens the tendency is firm, owing to an advance in wool, but still the demand is less active and difficult to obtain an advance. In manufactured goods and in cotton goods there has been more activity, but prices are reduced, Farmers and Miners selling at 24½c.

Philadelphia Iron Market.

PHILADELPHIA, September 23.—Pig metal is held firmly, but there is not much activity. Sales of No. 1 Foundry at $42, and No. 2 at $38,50. Scotch pig is quiet. Manufactured iron commands $87,50 for bars. Blooms are neglected.

St. Louis Cattle Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, September 24.—Cattle, hogs and sheep unchanged and the supply very good.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

Mr. CORNELL's labor-theory for his University at Ithaca, N. Y., receives a comment from the London Spectator that is worth quoting:

"Half the time of most men at college is fairly wasted in occupation a good deal more injurious to the mind than ploughing, or plastering, or planing; and ploughing, or plastering or planing produces health; and we all say health helps learning, and talk of mens sana in corpore sano, and have latent idea that the work of the world has been done by its strong men. Any one of us, we suppose, reasoning in the abstract—as the Scotchman is said to have made love—would argue that physical education was good, and there is no physical education quite equal to imperative and slightly exhausting manual labor. We all maintain, with a unanimity quite delightful to witness—a unanimity especially complete among men who never did a day's work in their lives—that an artizan could educate himself to any point he liked if he only tried, and had decently fair opportunities of study. We all assert that the athlete can study as well as the scholar, and under the Cornell scheme we have the athlete turned perforce into the school. It is all true, according to the muscular christians—and yet—and yet—and yet—Hawthorne did not find farming, when he tried it in that phalanstere, or New Society, or whatever it was at Blithedale, favorable to study. He became sleepy and heavy, he said, and did not want to think, much less to stimulate thinking artificially by studying a book. Concentration of thought would seem to be essential to to scholarship, and manual labor, interspersed or broken with study, is not favorable to concentration of thought. Indeed, there are men who hold that a slight degree of ill-health, not enough to cause preoccupation, but enough to dispose its victim towards sedentry rather than active work, is a necessary condition of scholarship."

The Paraguayan War.

Further intelligence through Brazilian sources, states that the surrender of the Paraguayan garrison on the Peninsula near Humaita took place after ten days' desperate struggle, when the Paraguayans had been three days without food, and many of them had been prostrated by exhaustion. The conditions then stipulated that they should not be forced to serve againts Lopez, and should choose their own place of residence in the allied nations. According to General Osorio, Humaita was a very weak point in its defences, and should have been captured long ago. The evacuation was going forward nearly two weeks before it was discovered by the allies. Timbo is now the objective point, as the allies cannot reach Tebicuari without first reducing it.

A PHILADELPHIA paper says:—The "Midnight Mission." a work of a most benificent character lately organized in this city, makes its first appeal for aid in the columns of this paper this morning. The benevolent and generous supporters of this plan for rescuing women from a life of degredation, have provided a home for those taken under its care, and have already met with gratifying success, in restoring thirty-six persons to a life of propriety and usefulness. As the institution has had but sixty-one women, altogether, under its care, this large proportion of successful treatment, shows that in the field of labor entered upon by the "Midnight Mission," there is a prospect and promise of greater and more gratifying success than usually results from missionary labors. What has already been accomplished, is the best measure of the merits of this mission, and ought to commend it to the favor and support of many of our readers.

THE recently deceased Mr. Stevens, of Hoboken, whose real estate in the place is believed to be worth $20,000,000, and whose entire property is estimated at over $50,000,000, has, by his will, directed the appropriation of $150,000 for the erection of an institution of learning in Hoboken, and $500,000 for its perpetual endowment, and he has also directed that $1,000,000 be devoted to the completion of the Stevens Battery, which is to be the property of the State of New Jersey. With the exception of these sums, the whole of his enormous property is left to his family (wife and children).

BLOOMS FROM ORE.—The manufacture of blooms direct from ore, under the Jameson patent, is successfully carried on at the forge of F. W. Hughes, Esq., at Ringgold, Schuylkill county, by a company, of which Mr. Hughes is one. Two hundred bushels of good charcoal and about two and a half tons of fifty per cent. ore yield a ton of blooms. The blooms are said to be of the best quality. The cost of working blooms by this process is said to be about six dollars per ton more than the cost of making pig metal in the ordinary blast furnace.

THE New York Times says: The Jews of America are at perfect liberty to vote for Seymour or any other man; but we must agree with the opinion expressed by several Israelite newspapers that it will be a very unwise thing for them to make a sectarian matter of their votes. As American citizens, the Jews are guarantied precisely the same political rights as other members of the population. Their voting, therefore, should be not as Jews, but as American citizens, whose best guarantee for their political rights is in the continued character of our politics.

GENERAL ROSECRANS wrote, February 18, 1863, as follows:

"The leaders of this rebellion are perfidious treacherous, unscrupulous and cruel; their leaders never will nor can be peaceable, or true friends and neighbors. We should rejoice to see the power of these leaders fall by the hand of their own people whom they oppress; the people for whose rights we fight in common with our own; but unless it does thus fall, we must destroy it, or it will destroy our nation."

THE coming Vice President has introduced a strawberry at South Bend, Ind., which is the largest, both in fruit and plant, of any variety, and is most productive. But it is too soft to ship, and is only fit for home use More of our productions should be too soft to ship, grain included, that there may be abundance for home use.

BUENOS AYRES.—On August 13th, the day of the terrible earthquakes in Peru, a tremendous storm burst over the city of Buenos Ayres, and was attended with the greatest loss of life that has occurred there for some time. Numerous vessels were sunk in the harbor, and several houses were blown down.

STEAM PLOWING, in California, promises to be a success. The machine is their own invention. It cuts furrows nine feet wide, and from five to eight inches deep, pulverizing fine, travels six miles an hour, and weighs only seven tons.

THE latest from Boston gives a Democratic gain of 100 per cent. in the town of Pekin, Maine. Last year there was one Democratic vote cast there, and this year it reached exactly two.

General Grant's Style.

When General Grant has a meaning to express he has no difficulty in making himself understood. In war, in civil convulsions, there is little place for bookish pedantry or scholarly dandyism. State papers are not prisms into which to look for the colors of the rainbow; they are not ward pictures or literary mosaics in which each phrase is selected for its prettiness. The effect of a cannon ball is determined, not by its brightness or polish, but by its weight of metal, by the power with which it moves, and by its reaching the mark. Gen. Grant's words have always reached the mark. "I recognize no Southern Confederacy." "I propose to move immediatoly on your works." "No terms but unconditional surrender." "I shall have no policy to enforce against the will of tho people." "Let us have peace." These are eloquent words, and easily understood. It is stated on the best authority that, throughout the war, Gen. Grant's despatches, orders and letters of any importance, were written by him; that his staff never attempted to imitate or improve his style. And it is a striking fact that, among all the writing on the war, the most concise and clearly written accounts of the campaigns are found in Gen. Grant's official reports. Where the narrative of other historians is obscure or confused, the official report is plain and intelligible.—Phelps' Life of Grant.

What the Kentucky Rebels Intend.

The New York Tribune says:

A friend recently dropped in on a Democratic Convention at Georgetown, Scott county, Kentucky. (Scott was a Rebel county throughout, even when the State seemed overwhelmingly Union, giving in 1861 a majority for Simms (Rebel) for Congress, over John J. Crittenden. It voted that way when most of the young men were in the Rebel armies; now, a young man who was not in the Rebel armies, and did not try to get in, stands a poor chance there.) On this occasion a Rebel lawyer was speaking. "As there are no reporters presen'," he observed, "I may venture to speak more freely than I otherwise should deem it prudent to do. We shall hold white elections in every Southern State, and choose electors for Seymour and Blair. If the House refuses to count the votes cast by these electors, the Northern Democracy are pledged to us to resist by force the inauguration of the Republican President. We have agreed to back them. Eight years ago they promised to back us; but they failed, and left us in the lurch. Now we have promised to back them, and shall not fail." This was said to a gathering of hail fellows, who received it with intense delight.

AUCTION SALES.

BY A. M'ILWAINE.

MINERSVILLE PROPERTY,

Corner of Centre Avenue and Miner Street.

7 LOTS AND 2 HOUSES.

MONDAY AFTERNOON, September 28th, at 3 o'clock, will be sold, on the premises, the valuable Gormley property in Minersville now City of Pittsburgh, at present occupied by W. M. Gormly, esq., and which has been sub-divided into seven desirable Lots, situate at corner of Centre Avenue and Miner street.

Lot No. 6 is 176 feet front on Miner street and 54 feet in depth along the side next to Centre Avenue, being about 100 feet in depth along the other side; on which is the two-story Brick Double mansion, containing hall, double parlor, drawing-room and dining-room on first floor; five chambers on second floor; two finished attics; basement, kitchen and wash house, with sink and hydrant in kitchen and good cistern connected with wash house. Dining-room and kitchen connected with dumb waiter. Near to house is a well of good water, covered with grape arbor, and grounds painted in fruit trees.

Lot No. 7 is an adjoining lot on corner of Centre avenue, having 100 feet front on Miner street, and being in depth 54 feet on one line and 38 feet on the other.

Lot No. 1 contains about one-quarter acre of ground, fronting 150 feet on Miner street, with a two story frame dwelling, containing six rooms and cellar. Also, spring house, fruit trees, &c.

Lots Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5 are each fronting 24 feet on Miner street, with depth from 100 to 123 feet, with fruit trees, &c.

The is handsomely situate and very desirable property is passed by the Minersville Street Cars bringing it into easy communication with lower part of the city. Those wishing are invited to examine the property before day of sale.

134 HANDSOME LOTS IN 22D WARD, PITTSBURGH, (formerly East Liberty,) at Pennsylvania Avenue, Junction with Greensburg Pike.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON, September 29th, at 2 o'clock, on the premises, will be sold, the 134 Handsome Lots, sub-divided from the Jonas R. McClintock property, beautifully situated at the junction of Pennsylvania Avenue with the Greensburg Pike, in the 22d ward of the city, formerly East Liberty, and fronting on Pennsylvania avenue, and other 50 feet avenues; the Lots being 25 feet front and from 100 to 122 feet in depth.

The location is unsurpassed for healthful elevation, accessibility and cultivated surroundings; and the plan of Lots is said out with a view to a consolidation of any number of Lots to make up the quantity of ground desired by the purchaser.

Parties wishing to view the grounds before day of sale will receive every necessary attention by calling on Dr. McClintock, on the premises. Those desirous of securing valuable and healthy Building Site should not neglect this opportunity.

A Free Excursion Train will leave the Union Depot, Liberty street, Pittsburgh, at half-past one o'clock P. M., for conveyance of ladies to and from sale. No tickets required.

Terms of sale—One-fourth cash, balance in three equal annual payments, with interest. $40 of the cash payment to be made on each lot at time of purchase.

Plan of Lots can be obtained at Auction Rooms, 106 Smithfield street.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

THE APPETITE FOR

Tobacco Destroyed!

Leave off Chewing and Smoking the Poisonous Weed, Tobacco.

One box of ORTON'S PREPARATION IS WARRANTED to destroy the appetite for tobacco in any person, no matter how strong the habit may be, IF IT FAILS IN ANY CASE THE MONEY WILL BE REFUNDEE. It is almost impossible to break off from the use of tobacco by the mere exercise of the will. Something is needed to assist nature in overcoming a habit so firmly rooted; with the help of the preparation there is not the least trouble. Hundreds have used it who are willing to bear witness to the fact that ORTON'S PREPARATION completely destroys the appetite for tobacco and leaves the person as free from any desire for it as before he commenced its use. It is perfectly safe and harmless in all cases. The Preparation acts directly upon the same glands and secretions affected by tobocco, and through these upon the blood, thoroughly cleansing the poison of tobacco from the system, and thus allaying the unnatural cravings of tobacco.

NO MORE HANKERING FOR TOBACCO AFTER USING ORTON'S PREPARATION! RECOLLECT IT IS WARRANTED. BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS!

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The following are a few selected from the multitude of recommendations in our possession:

[From W. P. Heald, Esq., Bangor, Me.]

BANGOR, Me., April 24, 1868.

I hereby certify that I have used tobacco for thirty years past, and for the last fifteen years I have used two pounds per months. I have made attempts to leave off at different times. I have left off one year at a time, but always continued to hanker for it until I used Orton's Preparation, which has completely cured me of the appetite for tobacco. I would recommend all who are affected with this terrible habit to try the preparation, which will certainly cure it if the directions are followed.

W. P. HEALD.

[From E. W. Adkins, Knoxville, Tenn.]

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., August 5, 1867.

This is to certify that I had used tobacco to such an extent that my health had become greatly impaired, and my whole system deranged and broken down. In June, 1867, I purchased one box of Orton's Preparation, and after using it I found that I was completely cured. I have not had any hankering or desire for tobacco since using the preparation. I believe it to be all that it is recommended, and I would advise all who wish to quit the use of tobacco to try one box of Orton's Preparation.

E. W. ADKINS.

[From John Morrill, Bangor, Me.]

BANGOR, Me., March 24, 1868.

This is to certify that I have used tobacco for eighteen years; have tried many times to leave off, but have suffered so much from a dizziness in my head, and gnawing at my stomach, that I have soon given up the trial. A short time since a friend induced me to try Orton's Preparation (sold by you.) I have done so, and am completely cured. I did not in the least hanker after tobacco, either to smoke or chew, after I began to use the Preparation.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Daily Prayer Meeting—From 12 M. to 12:30 o'clock at the Rooms of the Christian Association, No. 23 Fifth street.

Serenade.—The Brownstown "Mechanics' Glee Club" favored our office with as fine a vocal serenade last evening as we have ever had the pleasure of hearing. The following gentlemen, all well cultured and finished vocalists, compose the Club: Messrs. Richard Prosser, leader, L. Shaler, D. Edwards, J. Edwards, J. Davis, R. Blaze, G. Prosser, A. Rhodes, G. Drew, J. Morgan, J. Banks and C. Mustin.

A fellow the little the worse for rum was arrested last night by two policemen on Wylie street for having assaulted a mere lad. The prisoner walked quietly enough with the officers until suddenly recollecting that it was election times, quietly whispered in the ears of the officers just loud enough to be head by a passer-by—"Say fellows, I am a good James Blackmore man." It is hardly necessary to say he was immediately released.

Alleged Robbery.—A youth about nineteen years of age, giving his name as Philip Edwards, and stating that he came from Ohio, appeared at the Mayor's office yesterday morning, and alleged that he had been robbed of $100. He says that he went into a saloon in the city on the evening previous and took a drink. Soon after drinking he fell asleep and slept several hours, and on waking found the money gone. He thinks the stuff he drank was drugged. The money has not yet been recovered.

Severe Accident.—Yesterday morning, while the gun which gave the signal for the starting of the procession was being loaded for the second discharge, it exploded, badly shattering the arm and otherwise injuring Mr. W. F. Hood, who was ramming in the load. He was taken into the Monongahela House and medical assistance procured. It is doubtful whether the arm can be saved from amputation. Mr. Hood is as worthy a gentleman and as gallant a soldier as ever stood before a gun, and should the accident deprive him of the use of his arm it will be a calamity fully lamented by all who know him. The accident was of such a nature as would happen the most experienced and skillful gunners.

Obituary.

Mr. Amos Brawdy, a worthy and esteemed citizen of East Liverpool, Ohio, and one of the oldest and most appreciated readers of the GAZETTE, died at his residence on the 7th inst. The deceased had attained his eighty-fourth year, and was universally beloved and respected by all who knew him. Thus one by one of the old readers of the GAZETTE drop out of the march of life to make room for the generations which are crowding upon them. There is not now living a single original subscriber to our journal, and but few who subscribed to it after it had attained its first half century of age.

Iron City College—Evening Session.

As will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, the regular evening sessions of the Iron City College, corner of Penn and St. Clair streets, will be resumed on Monday, October 5th. These sessions, which are not only free to all regular day students, but likewise to all former students who have not yet completed their course of study, afford an admirable opportunity to clerks and young men engaged during the day, to secure, at small cost, much valuable practical instruction, as many a young man now in business in the city can testify. By commencing early students can complete a full course during the winter by attending evenings only. For circulars or terms apply at the college.

Probably Fatal Shot.

As the advance guard of the Republican Torchlight procession, on Wednesday evening, arrived at the corner of Federal and Lacock streets, Allegheny, a pistol shot was fired into the crowd of spectators, the ball taking effect in the side of Mr. John Welsh, and inflicting a very severe wound, which will probably prove fatal. Officers Garrison and McGarr, by direction of Capt. Lewis, arrested Lawrence Fox, who fired the shot, and conveyed him to the Mayor's office, where he was searched and a revolver found in his possession. Fox, who is about fifty years of age, says he had no intention of injuring any person, but fired the shot to add to the enthusiasm of the occasion. Welsh's case is considered a critical one by his physicians, and Fox will be detained in custody to await the result of the injuries.

OPERA HOUSE.—Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather and excitement consequent upon the demonstration yesterday, the attractions at the Opera House were sufficient to draw a very respectable audience in the production of the "White Fawn" which is the attraction referred to. Innumerable difficulties presented themselves, but through the energy of the management they have been overcome, and it was presented last night as perfect as ever it was in New York or Boston. The stock company, with perhaps one or two exceptions, are well up in their parts, and the ballet is a most excellent one. It is admitted by all that Morlacchi is the most perfect artiste of her profession, and several others of the troupe have a high reputation in the East. The scenery is beautiful and the paraphanalia really gorgeous.

Meeting in the Nineteenth Ward.

A large and enthusiastic Republican meeting was held in the Nineteenth ward on Tuesday evening, September 22d. The meeting was organized by the election of the following officers:

President—Hon. George Wilson.

Vice Presidents—Henry Lloyd, Col. D. B. Morris, Col. Harvy Van Voorhis, S. Beamer, C. H. Wells, John Jones, J. Taylor, J. S. Dillemath, J. B. Semple, Jas. Winnie, Adam Harbin, S. H. Baird, R. E. Breed, W. Harrison, Adam S. Bright.

Eloquent addresses were made by Gen. F. H. Collier, Major A. M. Brown, and others, which were enthusiastically received by the audience, and frequently interrupted with applause.

The meeting adjourned at a late hour with three times three cheers for the Republican candidates on the National, State and county tickets.

Why It Is.

Many are inclined to marvel at the great trade driven in brisk and dull seasons at the popular first class representative fur establishment of William Fleming, No. 139 Wood street, and we are prepared to furnish the solution of the enigma which worries trade circles. The wonderful inducements in the way of low prices offered in ladies' furs at this extensive house is the only explanation to account for the crowds of purchasers who daily throng the salesrooms with customers anxious to secure the great bargains offered. Then again, Mr. Fleming has laid in for this season the finest and by far the largest assortment of ladies' furs ever brought to this or any other western city. These goods were bought early in the season, Mr. Fleming thus securing for himself and patrons the best selection and the lowest possible prices. Those who can make their purchases at this early part of the season will save from fifteen to twenty-five per cent., and perhaps a good deal more, as it is an invariable rule that prices advance as the season progresses. Everybody must know that Fleming's great emporium is at No. 139 Wood street.

Notice Extraordinary!!—Correction.

The Weed Sewing Machine Company take special pride in announcing, after more than two years of patient thorough research and unremitting labor, the successful completion of their new manufacturing machine. The principle of its construction is new, novel and entirely unknown in its application to such an instrument, and will excite the curiosity, as it must challenge the admiration of every sewing machine critic and lover of mechanical art. It has neither "cam," "cog wheel," "compound lever," or a succession of "revolving cranks,"—runs almost noiselessly, with the least possible effort at a high rate of speed, has a capacity of nearly twenty inches under the arm, is of immense power, and destined, they fully believe, to create as great and favorable a sensation in its particular sphere, as has their new "Family Favorite," whose history has been one continual series of triumphs since its advent and first public appearance as a competitor with others at the Great Paris Exposition in June, 1867, where it was justly awarded the highest medal bestowed upon American Family Sewing Machines. But it is no stranger in this community and encomiums of ours are superfluous.

The New Manufacturing Machine, as well as the "Family Favorite," are always on exhibition to everybody at the Agency, 112 Grant Street.

Building Lots in East Liberty.—On Pennsylvania avenue, at junction of the Greensburg pike, a well arranged plan of 134 lots, with wide avenues, has been laid out on the Jonas R. McClintock property, East Liberty (now Twenty-second ward). This handsomely situated property is so well known that it needs no commendation. These lots will be sold at auction, on the premises, next Tuesday afternoon. Free excursion train to and from the sale. See McIlwaine's auction advertisement. Plans can be had at the auction rooms, 105 Smithfield street.

Minersville Property at Auction.—Monday afternoon next, at three o'clock, on the premises, will be sold the handsomely situated and valuable property of W. M. Gormley, Esq., which has been divided into seven large lots, two of which embrace the excellent improvements. This handsomely situated and very desirable property is passed by the Wylie street cars, bringing it into easy communication with the lower part of the city. See McIlwaine's auction advertisement.

Strangers in the city should call and examine the fine assortment of dry goods for Fall and Winter just opened at Bates & Bell's well known and popular store, No. 21 Fifth street. FROM EUROPE.

The Spanish Revolution—Queen Isabella Willing to Resign on Conditions—All Spain in a State of Siege—Gen. Prim with 20,000 Men Marching on Madrid—Another Speech by our Minister to England.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SPAIN.

LONDON, September 24.—The Madrid Gazette says that Navaliches had arrived on the north side of the Sierra Morrena with two regiments of cavalry, eight battalions of infantry and four batteries. The revolutionary General Servano was marching with a large body of troops to give battle to the Royal troops. Great excitement prevailed in Madrid, and it was believed that the success of the Revolutionists was certain.

Queen Isabella has signified her willingness to abdicate if the Revolutionists will accept the young Prince of Asturias, she to act as Regent until he attains his majority. The Revolutionists, however, have refused any compromise and demand the expulsion of the Bourbons and the establishment of a Constituent Assembly and a Provisional Government.

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Queen Isabella has entered France, and there is a rumor that rebel General Prim has been arrested, but it lacks confirmation.

The Payes says the Spanish army is loyal, and that the insurrection is confined to the Province of Andalusia and a few seaports. The following official announcement has been received from Madrid: Catalonia, Aragon and Valencia are quiet.

The Moniteur has the following: The revolution in Spain makes no headway. The people are indifferent or repulsive to the prospect. Active measures are being taken by the Government to suppress the rebellion. The insurgents in Andalusia are retiring before the advance of the royal troops.

PARIS, September 24.—Evening.—The report that the Queen of Spain had crossed the frontier into France was premature. She still remains at San Sebastian, but it is rumored that she will soon leave for Pau, in the Department of the Lower Pyrennes. The French authorities have arrested a number of refugees who crossed over the frontier.

It is reported that Lieutenant General Manuel Gassett, Captain General of Valencia, was seized by the mob and killed, and that his body was dragged through the streets of the city.

Official dispatches from Madrid make the following statements:

The insurrection has been suppressed in the city of Grenada. A battle was fought which lasted two hours, and resulted in the defeat of the rebels. The disloyal movement is confined to the Province of Santander and the cities of Malaga and Seville. Letters from Cadiz say the citizens there have taken no part in the rebellion, and business has not been interrupted.

LONDON, September 24—Evening.—The following is the latest received from Spain: The Government at Madrid has decided all Spain in a state of siege. General Isander, who was sent out with a detachment of Royal troops against the province of Santander, has joined the insurgents. A desperate affray took place in Santander between the opposing parties, in which several persons were injured. The reports that General Prim is marching directly on Madrid are reiterated. He is accompanied by General Serrano and Duke De La Torre, and it is estimated that the forces under his command now are twenty thousand strong. The Duke De La Torre is said to be acting as Provisional President and civil head of the the revolution. He has refused offers of accommodation made by General Concha from Madrid. The Spanish ships of war in the port of San Sebastian have declared against the Queen, and joined the rebel fleet. The revolutionary leaders have issued a decree declaring any officer who orders an attack on the people or patriot soldiers, shall be adjudged a traitor to his country.

GREAT BRITAIN.

LONDON, September 24.—Minister Johnson visited the Leeds exhibition yesterday. In reply to an address of the Exhibition Committeee he reiterated his previous assurances of the maintainance of good will between England and America. He also paid a tribute of praise to the British army and eulogised Lord Napier, whose name he said was a household word in America for his courage and humanity in the Abysinian war.

FRANCE.

PARIS, September 24.—The French Government will immediately strengthen its military posts on the Spanish frontier.

The reported rising of Republicans in Calabria and Sicily is denied.

Congressional Nominations—Arrangements for the Semi-Centennial Anniversary of American Odd Fellows.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BALTIMORE, Sept. 24.—The following Congressional nominations were made to-day by the Republicans: First district, Henry R. Torbort, of Cecil county; Second district, John T. Ensor, of Baltimore county; Third district, Gen. Adam King, of Baltimore; Fourth district, Dan Weisel; Fifth district, William J. Albert, of Baltimore county.

The Grand Lodge of the I. O. O. F. this morning appointed Past Grand Sires Kennedy, of New York, Nichelson Veitch, Grand Sire select Farnsworth, and representatives Ford, of Massachusetts, Garey, of Maryland, Reed, of New Jersey, and Manis, of Delaware, a committee to select an orator and arrange for the great celebration of the fiftieth anniverary of the order which is to take place in Philadelphia on the 26th of April next. The morning was consumed in hearing special committees. The Lodge adjourned at noon and re-assembled at one o'clock and proceeded to the transaction of the private business of the Order.

Alabama Legislature.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

MONTGOMERY, September 24.—The Legislature to-day did nothing, and will probably take no action relating to an election for Presidential electors until the return of the Committee sent to Washington to ask for troops. A large number of the members are said to be opposed to an election by the people, and will prevent it if they can. The memorial adopted by the Legislature and taken to Washington by the Committee alleges that there is really no respect for the laws in this State and that the civil officers are prevented from discharging their duties by threats from the people at large.

The Arctic Expedition—Traces of Sir John Franklin's Party.

Dr. Goold, of Dublin, Ireland, who has spent the past two years in the Arctic regions, arrived at New London a few days ago, and brought the latest accounts of Capt. Hall and the expedition sent out by Henry Grinnell, of New York, under his command, to learn, if possible, the fate of Erebus and Terror, with Sir John Franklin and his crews, which vessels sailed twenty-five years ago in quest of the Northern passage. Dr. Goold makes the following statements:

"In August one year ago, Dr. Goold spent considerable time with Mr. Hall, who was then at Repulse Bay. Mr. Hall has traced the fate directly of two of the last survivors of Sir John Franklin's party, and has obtained valuable information regarding the relics and some records reported by the natives to have been left by the lost expedition in King William's Land. Captain Hall learned from some of the Esquimaux, in 1866, that about two years prior to that time Captain Crozier and one of the Franklin crew had died in the vicinity of Southampton Island, while endeavoring to make their way to that place, in the belief that they would be there able to meet a whaler to convey them back to England, or, in fact, anywhere, to escape from their Arctic prison. Capt. Hall is confident of the identity of Capt. Crozeir with one of the men so described to have perished, as the natives not only gave Capt. Crozier's name, but were in possession of certain articles that belonged to him and to his companion. Mr. Hall obtained from these Esquimaux Captain Crozier's watch, a gold chronometer, made by Arnold & Dent, of London, beside some small articles of silver and trinkets belonging to their outfit. These relics Mr. Hall now holds, and have been seen and handled by Dr. Goold. Captain Crozier's companion, who died with him, is believed to have been a steward of either the Erebus or Terror, as the natives say he was a server of food, but could not recollect his name. The natives also state that they have among them, near Southampton Island, a piece of gold lace and a piece of gold bullion which belonged to Captain Crozier, and is believed to have formed a part of one of his epaulettes. They also stated that a number of others had started with Capt. Crozier from a place very far north to reach Southampton Inlet, but had perished one by one on the way. They had been passed from one band of Enewits to the other, and when Captain Crozier had passed through two tribes the natives say all further traces were lost, but Captain Hall himself traced the remainder there. Captain Hall also says: 'The opinion most entertained is that the natives killed them. They say themselves there was no difficulty in Captain Crozier getting through, because he was accounted among the natives a first-rate hunter for that country, and could at all times keep himself in food.' The records which Captain Hall hopes to be able to secure are in King William's land, and considerable difficulty is anticipated in the effort to reach them. According to native information, the last six survivors built a cabin or rude vault of stones on the rocks, and deposited within it some documents and such articles as they had no further use for, or would have been an encumbrance on their journey. For some time past King William and his tribe have been hostile towards the native followers of King Albert, who inhabit the region about Repulse Bay, where Mr. Hall was quartered, and would allow no incursions into their country. The place where this cairn is described to be situated is about four hundred and fifty miles northward from Repulse Bay, and in order to reach it Captain Hall has formed an alliance with Albert and his people, and, together with his own escort of Europeans, was preparing an expedition of about ninety persons to march in quest of the records. It was Mr. Hall's intention to start in February or March of this year, and he had already accumulated supplies of provisions and other necessaries for the purpose. His force will consist of five Caucasians besides himself, and the remainder would be composed of Alfred's men. Of the whites accompanying him two were Irishmen, one German, one Englishman and one Swede, all of whom were recruited by him from the crew of the Pioneer, which was wrecked in the summer of 1867, at King's Cape. These men are all armed with revolvers and shot guns, and it was mainly through reliance on the Europeans and their weapons that the Albert men were induced to participate in the incursion. Alone they would be unable to cope with King Williams forces, who number about two hundred, and could be assembled in a month. Capt. Hall would offer no molestation to King William's people, but if opposed would give them battle if necessary, as he was determined to obtain the records of the lost explorers if possible. He would be accompanied also by Joe and Hannah, the two Esquimaux or Enewits, who, it will be remembered, were a few years ago educated in this country, and exhibited in New York. Joe and Hannah are man and wife, and now form part of Capt. Hall's retinue, or household, thus affording him valuable assistance through their knowledge of the English language, communicating with the various tribes of natives, with whose dialects and peculiarities they are familiar. The entire distance, it was expected, would have to be traversed on sledges drawn by dogs, of which useful motive power Mr. Hall has an abundant stock. It was Mr. Hall's determination, if successful in finding the cairn and no unforeseen circumstances or obstacles intervened, to press still further forward, and if possible to reach the open Polar Sea, and perhaps return by the way of Behring Strait. If impeded, he expected to return from his expedition to King William's Land about September of 1868, and take up his quarters for the winter at Repulse Bay. Last year he wintered in this locality, and at the time Dr. Goold saw him he was in 66 degrees 28 minutes north latitude, and longitude 81 degrees 5 minutes west.

"A fact which Dr. Goold reports, and which may prove of interest to scientific men, is to be found in the observation that last winter, although unusually severe here, was the mildest ever known in the Arctic regions, the temperature at no time falling lower than forty degrees below zero."

The Indian Troubles.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

FORT WALLACE, Sept. 24.—A scout who left Col. Forsythe's camp on the 19th came in to-day, and reports that the party had plenty of ammunition and were in good spirits. Their rations were all gone and their only dependence was horse and mule meat. Col. Forsythe thought, if absolutely necessary to do so, they could sustain themselves six days longer. The Indians were evidently sick of their bargain, and were it not for the condition of their wounded they would come through to Fort Wallace, as they were confident of whipping the enemy if attacked. The Indians lost twenty-five killed, and a large number of wounded, and considerable stock were killed and disabled. They removed most of their dead from the field after night, though some were too close to our men to venture with safety. It is confidently expected that Bankhead and Carpenter would reach Forsythe this morning.

The American Navy—Its Discipline and Punishments.

A somewhat remarkable article has appeared in the Springfield Republican, purporting to be written by "An Eye Witness," on the system of discipline and the nature of punishments in use in our navy. This article contains several rather startling assertions of facts, which, whether true or false, should be generally known, and to this end they are here reproduced:

The "Eye Witness," for example, says: "It will be found that there is an almost total ignorance, even among the best informed officers, as to the ends of discipline, and more especially as to the best method of securing it. It may be asserted, without fear of contradiction, that nowhere in the United States, not even on the Southern plantations in those sunny days for which our misguided brethern sigh, were there ever more systematic cruelties practiced than on some of our ships of war during the last five years.

* * * The punishments constantly inflicted during the war, in direct violation or evasion of the 'articles for the better government of the navy,' were numerous and severe, and some officers, not cruel, thought of the days of the cat at the gangway, and wondered whether we have improved in abandoning it.

A surgeon of a ship off Charleston had his attention called, upon joining the ship, to the case of a boy made permanently ill, apparently by being kept for hours at a time on deck, with a 32 pound shot tied to each wrist, and a running noose around his neck, and fastened in the rigging above, so that any motion to ease himself from the intolerable weight would end in straugulation if persisted in; this punishment being ordered by his commanding officer.

* * * The universal place of imprisonment is the "brig," or "sweat box," for it is the same thing with two names. It is a room built in the middle of the berth-deck, closed above and below, without windows, and ventilated only by a few half-inch augur holes in the door, or the sides. Although it often contains four men at once, it is rarely large enough to allow a full grown man to stretch out on the floor. Yet here men pass their weary days and weeks, being permitted to leave only for the calls of nature, and then under the custody of the master-at-arms.

In the fall of 1862 a medical officer on board a ship lying at the Portsmouth yard, was called at ten o'clock at night by the master-at-arms, who informed him that a man in the brig wanted to see him, and when the door opened, he found four men standing, sitting and lying in a space of four feet wide, two and one-half deep, and six and one-half high. They all belonged to the belligerent and offensive negro race. One was sitting at the back of the cell with his hand-cuffed hands to his face, heart broken at the disgrace that had befallen him, after a year's faithful service. The man who had asked the help of the doctor had since fallen asleep on the floor, and on attempting to awaken him, it proved to be the merciful insensibility of asphyxia that had so nearly rescued him from the routine of naval discipline. Upon inquiry, it proved that the executive officer had gone to bed, leaving no orders for the liberation of these men. So they were certain to be in all night. A knock on the door showed him to be enjoying the sleep of innocence and peace, and an appeal to the commander, who had only that day reported for duty, caused the prompt liberation of the prisoners. This worthy executive officer was discharged from the service by a board of medical survey for feigned amaurosis, and those in his confidence have enjoyed the excellent humor with which he described how he blundered against his doctor at midday and thus secured his verdict. The sweat box, on one of the monitors at least, was designedly placed near the boiler, so that artificial heat could, at pleasure, be added to the tortures of confinement.

There was in the early years of the war, a punishment beside which the brig was merciful and kind. Let the reader imagine his hands placed behind his back, the wrists securely bound together, and then the other end of this cord fastened to a bolt in the deck overhead, with so little slack that the ends of the toes just touch the berth deck; the shoulders are thrown forward, and when the least roll of the ship takes place, the poor wretch loses his hold upon the deck and swings to and fro, the weight of the body striving to dislocate the arms from the shoulder blades. And these were not the scum and refuse of our great cities, nor the habitually degraded European sailors; neither was it away back in the times of the Duke of Alba and the inquisition that these attrocious cruelties were practiced; but Worcester county farmers' sons, who did not hear an order to come on deck, were thus tortured in 1862. One night, in the fall of that year, a man was ordered to be 'triced up' (for that was the name of this hellish crime) for an hour, and when he told the officer he had no right to punish him in that way, the order was changed to punishment during the pleasure of the officer, and in this case the man was forgotten, the offiser went to bed, and his victim hung from six o'clock to ten. A sudden night call, in this awful autumn, took the surgeon to his dispensary on the berth deck, and as the ship was rolling heavily, he steadied himself against the side of the ship and waited until a sudden rolling brought a swinging body against him, and then he heard a groan. There were three young men, for some small offence, wearing away the darkness in that place, bumping against each other, with their faces so distorted by agony that none of them were recognized even on close inspection."

VALLANDIGHAM in his stumping tour in Ohio boasts that no appointment in the revenue service or any other brach of the Government service under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury will be made without his consent. This most bold-faced declaration of the prostitution of the Government patronage to defeat an ex-soldier like Gen. Schenck and advance the interests of such a man as Vallandigham, teaches a lesson which is applicable to other sections of the country.

BRIEF NEWS ITEMS.

—Mr. Colfax had an informal reception last night by the Union League in New York, and leaves for the West to-day.

—Mrs. Locke, of Boston attempted to light a fire with coal oil yesterday, with the usual result—death. When will people learn wisdom?

—The proceedings thus far against Surratt cost an immense sum of money. It is believed no further steps will be taken against him.

—The constant rains are seriously damaging the cotton crop of Middle Tennessee. The prospect now is that a third less will be produced than was expected at the first of the month.

—A Frenchman was found dead yesterday, at Nashville, Tenn., in the Market-house. He had laid down on one of the benches, and shot himself through the heart with a pistol. Pecuniary troubles are supposed to have been the cause.

—The National Labor Congress in session in New York passed resolutions yesterday to appoint an Executive Committee, one from each Congressional district, to form a workingmen's party with the view of securing the election of men favorable to the eight hour movement.

CAUTION!

TO BUYERS OF TEA.

C. A. BOUCHER,

114 SMITHFIELD ST

OPPOSITE POST OFFICE.

Original Red Front Tea Warehouse

The undersigned would respectfully call the attention of buyers of Teas to the inconsistent and false statements made by the

BOGUS TEA COMPANIES

Of the present day. Men with scarcely sufficient knowledge of Tea to distinguish Black from Green are advertising themselves as the Great Tea Companies of the country, and claim to sell the best Teas at from 80c. to $1.25 per lb. More apparent falsehood and misrepresentation was never published.

To prove the outrageous nature of such claims it only necessary to refer to published reports of daily Auction Sales of Teas, by the cargo, in the great market of New York, at which fine Teas cannot be bought for less than from $1.50 to $2 per lb.

Another active means of fraud is Tea Stores giving SHORT WEIGHT instead of 16 OUNCES FOR A POUND.

In this way many buyers are misled into the belief that they are purchasing goods at a reasonable cost, when, in fact, they are, by these means, induced into paying excessive prices.

The undersigned will give a

REWARD OF $50,

for each and every case of short weight of tea or other goods, as weighed on his tested scales.

☞ A descriptive Catalogue and Price List of Teas to be had on application.
